Industry Pollution Handled Gently

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials have decided to use a soft touch in enforcing water quality standards against industrial polluters.

Criminal prosecution will be the last resort, federal officials said at a government-industry conference Wednesday, and any charges filed will probably fall on plant managers, not top executives.

In fact, said an official of the Environmental Protection Agency, EPA's regional enforcement agents have been instructed not to recommend a suit against a company before trying to get a firm's voluntary cooperation.

27 Cities
The government's enforcement plans were spelled out to industrialists in a conference sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers and transmitted by closed-circuit television to participants in 27 cities.

An estimated 40,000 businesses must apply, by July 1, for permits to discharge industrial wastes into the nation's waterways under a new federal program aimed at curbing pollution.

Permits will be issued by the Corps of Army Engineers, but only upon certification by state agencies and EPA that a discharge will not violate water quality standards.

"Our policy is not to bring suit if we don't have to," John Quarles, EPA general counsel, said. "In a recent meeting in Washington with EPA enforcement agents," he continued, "we directed them not... recommend a suit until they had explored with the company the prospects of solving the problem."

Shiro Kashiwa, assistant U.S. attorney general, said that if a suit is recommended by EPA or the Corps, the Justice Department "would prefer a civil injunctive suit."

Suits Pending
Kashiwa said the Justice Department now has pending some 40 civil suits seeking injunctions against major industries.

Martin Green, Justice Department specialist in antipollution enforcement, told corporate presidents and executives that if criminal charges were brought, the defendant would be "more likely a plant manager than the higher-ranking executive."

Industrialists in the conference expressed concern over federal requirements that they report information on plant inputs as well as on discharges. Such information, they said, could give valuable confidential information to competitors.

One asked if citizens could use the legally reported information on discharges to start antipollution suits and try to collect an informer's bounty from the court.

Kashiwa said the Justice Department "would strenuously object to the court if this were done."

William D. Ruckelshaus, head of EPA, said discharge permits would be denied, and violators prosecuted, only where it appeared evident that a company was not really trying to meet water quality standards.

No Motive Found In Slaying of 12

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — A farm labor contractor is charged formally in a mass murder case that has yielded the hacked bodies of 12 men found buried in Northern California peach orchards.

A search continued today for more possible victims of the assailant who hacked each of the 12 in the back of the head with a machete or a large, heavy knife.

Juan V. Corona, 37, a migrant labor recruiter for 15 years in Yuba City's peach and prune growing region, was held in isolation in the three-cell women's section of the small Sutter County jail.

Corona was taken before Justice Court Judge J. J. Hankins Wednesday for a brief, closed hearing on 10 counts of murder filed by Dist. Atty. G. Dave Teja. Two bodies were found after those papers were drawn.

Public Record
Hankins ordered everyone involved in the investigation not to discuss anything beyond the public record.

Roy J. Van den Heuvel, Sutter County public defender named as Corona's counsel, asked that newsmen and photographers be barred from the hearing.

Before the hearing, Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker declared: "We're certain he committed the murders."

But he said he knew of no motive—"none at all, none that we can discover."

"All of the murder victims have the same type of wounds in the back of the head," the sheriff said. "I would rule out an axe as the murder weapon."

"It could have been either a machete or a heavy knife."

Stab Wounds
Most of the victims also had been stabbed in the chest and some were cut on the face, he said.

Corona was arrested shortly after 4 a.m. Wednesday at his three-year-old, $22,000 home in the new Richland Road subdivision in Yuba City after officers had dug nine victims from sandy orchard graves three to five feet deep.

The makers of tanning butters, mineral oils and baby oils promise help toward a deep, dark tan. But the AMA warns against overconfidence in products without sunscreens and notes that baby and mineral oils in particular "will not promote tanning or prevent burning."

The first grave was discovered last Thursday in the orchard of Goro Kagehiro five miles north of Yuba City, a fruit growing center 135 miles northeast of San Francisco on the Feather River.

Juan V. Corona

Kagehiro called sheriff's officers after noting that a hole two feet deep and six feet long he observed in the morning had been filled by afternoon.

The body of Kenneth Edward Whitacre, 40, of Alameda, Calif., was dug up there.

The next body was found Tuesday afternoon after a tractor driver noticed a mound on the 500-acre Jack Sullivan peach and prune ranch on the Feather River's west bank.

A systematic search uncovered four more graves in a cluster three-quarters of a mile away. Two more were found a half mile in the opposite direction along the river's bank.

One grave contained two corpses. The others were buried individually.

Suspicious Mounds
Suspicious looking mounds about two miles from the river yielded three more corpses Wednesday afternoon. All but the first body were buried on the Sullivan ranch, where Corona bossed a farm labor camp during harvest seasons.

Sheriff Whiteaker said the oldest grave was about two months old and covered by grass. The most recent was less than 48 hours old, he said.

Shortly before Corona was led handcuffed into the jail with his head covered by a blanket, officers carried inside an axe, a pruning knife and a dirt-caked shovel.

Whiteaker said four victims had been identified by Wednesday night.

The sheriff said all appeared to be transients who would be unlikely to be reported missing.

Two-Year Draft Extension Passes Hurdle in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has won a major Senate victory in its bid for a two-year draft extension, but the sponsor of a one-year limit says he isn't ready to abandon his amendment.

"We're disappointed but not deterred," Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., said in an interview after the Senate voted 42 to 31 Wednesday against a move to raise sharply the military pay raises in the draft-extension bill.

Schweiker had said approval of the extra pay, combining in one year what the Nixon administration wants to spread over two years, would be a big help in winning the one-year amendment. The thinking was that higher pay would draw more volunteers and allow the draft to be sooner.

After Wednesday's vote, however, he said: "Several senators told me they would support the one year and not the pay. I haven't figured out why."

Schweiker said 47 senators are committed to or leaning toward one year but conceded he had expected the vote on pay to be closer.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, who sponsored the amendment to increase the bill's $1 billion in pay hikes to the $2.7 billion voted by the House, said of the defeat:

"I think the absentees killed us," he told a reporter. "If we'd had the people here, we would have won."

The administration fought hard against the extra pay on grounds it would force closing of some military bases and other defense cuts. The vote also was a triumph for Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and floor manager of the draft bill.

Pay Increase
"Somewhere, sometime, the Senate is going to have to turn down a pay increase," he said before the vote. "If we don't, there is going to be a revolt of the taxpayers."

The vote on the pay raise, which will have to be settled finally when Senate and House conferees attempt to resolve the different versions of the bill, was the Senate's final action before it quit for a long Memorial Day weekend.

The Senate resumes work Tuesday but the next draft vote comes June 4 on the one-year extension.

In the only other vote Wednesday, the Senate turned down, 67 to 8, a proposal by Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., for an 18-month draft extension.

Dominick said his proposal was designed to prevent draft extension from becoming "a political football" in the 1972 presidential campaign.

Stennis said, however, the draft

Burning Love Affair Is Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Americans are on the verge of a love affair in which they're certain to get burned.

They don't have to get burned by the object of their affection, the sun. But arrayed against their hopes of making it through the summer without pain are sun tan preparations which offer no protection; sunburn remedies whose curative

New Order On Pentagon Documentary

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee investigating the CBS documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon" has withdrawn its original subpoena asking for all unused material in the program and issued a new order for part of the material and for testimony by CBS President Frank Stanton.

The new subpoena demands only film and sound recordings edited out of scenes broadcast in the documentary.

"It appears that questionable and deceptive practices were employed in presenting to the public what purported to be a factual news documentary," the subcommittee said Wednesday in a statement.

Stanton said he had not yet seen the subpoena but added, "Our basic position in declining on First Amendment grounds to provide material not actually broadcast remains the same."

Noting that the Supreme Court is to rule on subpoenaing reporters' notes, the subcommittee said films and recordings, however, "cannot be equated to the private thoughts and impressions of a reporter committed to a notebook."

Irish Students Protests Filming

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Actor Donald O'Connor was the target of orange peels and jeering remarks from students who staged a protest in front of cameras during filming for a television show.

The students complained that the program was portraying Ireland as a land of leprechauns and other little people.

The crew had made 20 attempts Wednesday to shoot the same scene for "Donald's Dublin" before campus officials were able to pull the students away.

powers are disputed: drugs, soaps and cosmetics which can make sun bathers super-sensitive, and their own ignorance.

Americans spend more than $50 million a year looking for the right suntan preparation, although an official of the Food and Drug Administration says, "There's nothing that will prevent a sunburn except staying out of the sun."

The American Medical Association won't go that far. It cautions moderation in exposure to the sun and says, "Properly applied suntan lotion can be helpful in preventing a burn and promoting a tan if you use one suited to your needs."

That's the problem. "The selection of one brand of suntan preparation over another is virtually a hit-and-miss procedure," said the AMA's Committee on Cosmetics.

The odds favor missing. An AMA survey of 10 stores turned up 56 different creams, lotions and oils, of which 32 listed no sunscreening agent to protect against sunburn.

Claims made in the label on a suntan preparation are a buyer's most important clue in lotion hunting.

Under federal law, if the label says a product prevents sunburn, the product is considered a drug. The label must list its active ingredients, which must include the chemicals called sunscreens. If a product's label says only that it promotes tanning, it is classified a cosmetic and is not required to list ingredient or protect against the sun.

Recent research has found the most effective sunscreens to be para-aminobenzoic acid and isomyl p-N, N-dimethylaminobenzoate in 65 to 95 per cent alcohol. Widely used other sunscreens include the salicylates, digalloyl trioleate and benzophenone compounds.

How widely the effectiveness of products that claim to prevent sunburn can vary was indicated by a study in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The study showed that three experimental formulas, which have since been marketed, filtered out as much as 80 per cent of the sun's burning rays. The more popular products in the same line provided about 10 per cent protection, with several others offering even less.

The study, done on human volunteers, said none of the 24 popular brands tested offered adequate protection for more than an hour, and 20 products afforded almost no protection for even 30 minutes when the subjects were sweating heavily.

The makers of tanning butters, mineral oils and baby oils promise help toward a deep, dark tan. But the AMA warns against overconfidence in products without sunscreens and notes that baby and mineral oils in particular "will not promote tanning or prevent burning."

Drug Use Cited as Danger to Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new forces are major wholesalers of opium and heroin and have been directly involved in large-scale heroin smuggling activity," the new report said. "Reliable sources withdraw all U.S. troops unless report that at least two high-ranking Laotian officials, military and governmental, including the chief of the Laotian gendarmes, are deeply involved in heroin operations in that country and throughout Southeast Asia."

The report, prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, says many high-ranking Laotian, Thai and Vietnamese officials have a major hand in illegal drug sales to GIs. In most of the opium from which some cases, it says, U.S. planes heroin is produced is grown in and diplomatic pouches are Burma and processed to Laos or used to ferry opium and heroin into Saigon.

The report recommends the President "take personal command of the struggle to eliminate the illegal international to be one of the key figures in traffic in narcotics, particularly the opium, morphine base, and heroin, and commit the full resources of the country to that try and throughout Southeast Asia."

Only Solution
If these efforts fail, the study said, Steele's report said, South Vietnam, Laos and Laotian Air Force planes are frequently used.

Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn., principal author of the report, compiled after he and Rep. Morgan F. Murphy, D-Ill., toured Southeast Asia earlier this year.

An earlier report from the House Armed Services Committee also described corruption in the drug trade among South Vietnamese officials, but stopped short of indicating how heroin gets into Vietnam.

Pollution Abatement Results Promised

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The relatively new pollution abatement drive in Wisconsin should start bearing fruit in the next 20 months, Thomas G. Frangos, administrator of the State Department of Natural Resources, environmental protection division, said today.

"This is the period when we're really going to get to the environmental crunch," he said, noting the public will finally be able to judge its effectiveness.

Frangos was the first speaker in the one-day public forum on a proposed Fox River-Lake Winnebago Water Quality Management Cleanup proposal.

Numerous officials from Fox Valley municipalities and counties, and interested persons attended the sessions at the Pioneer Inn.

The forum is aimed at organizing local support and a management organization to actively seek and use federal and state funds toward an eventual cleanup of the surface waters.

The forum was sponsored by the Post-Crescent and television station WLUK.

Frangos, who was optimistic about the state's anti-pollution efforts to date, said the DNR was impressed with the management proposal, which includes the study of a utility concept for operating the program.

The DNR worked with Fox

Valley technicians on the proposal and is preparing to forward it to the federal Environmental Protection Agency, which holds the funds.

The management program would complement industrial and municipal abatement efforts.

Frangos said the DNR also is going to move more strongly on air pollution. He said more abatement orders would be issued in the next two months against certain polluters who have failed to respond to prior request.

The DNR's environmental protection division is the state agency charged with abating air and water pollution in Wisconsin.

Frangos outlined what the division of the DNR has done in recent years.

He based his optimism on the fact that:

— Some 700 orders have been issued against municipalities and industries in the last three years and that 100 were satisfied last year.

$17 Million Last Year
— The DNR has granted $17 million in federal funds to municipalities for treatment plants last year. This compares with $43 million during the previous 10 years in the state.

— Some 62 municipal pollution abatement projects have been awarded $115 million in state and federal funds, and in the short history of the state ORAP funding, $30 million has been committed.

— The DNR has approved over 1,900 pollution abatement plans in the past two years and that construction has started on 190 projects during the first quarter of 1971.

— Industry is expected to spend over $20 million in the next two years to fight pollution. This compares with $5.5 million in 1970 and $1.25 million in 1969.

— The state abatement orders will reduce surface waters' biochemical oxygen demand by 63 per cent statewide and about 68 per cent in the lower Fox River to Green Bay.

Frangos said that air pollution was getting a "rather high priority" at the DNR. He noted that until last year the air pollution program had little money and only three persons but added that this was drastically changing.

Air Is Next

He predicted that in about two years, air pollution abatement orders also will be in the enacted stage. He said that corrective action already has been started in several state cases.

The environmental division chief complimented valley residents for their long interest in pollution abatement and encouraged them to support the Fox-Lake Winnebago Management proposal.

The second morning speaker was Dr. H. J. (Jack) Day, professor of environmental control, University of Wisconsin Green Bay. He explained the management proposal and how it had been developed.

The luncheon speaker was to be Dr. Irving Fox, associate director of the Water Resources Center, University of Wisconsin.

The afternoon session was to feature a panel discussion and a question-and-answer period at which a definite local organization was expected to be formulated.

3 White Youths Held in Death of Black Girl

DREW, Miss. AP) — Three young whites are in jail on charges that they murdered an 18-year-old black girl, who had graduated from Drew High School as an honor student hours before she was gunned down on a city street.

The Tuesday night death of Jo-Etha Collier touched off rock throwing incidents in the small Sunflower County town and prompted Mississippi NAACP President Aaron Henry to telegraph President Nixon.

"Your help is needed immediately to put down a wave of senseless killings of black citizens of Mississippi by white citizens," Henry said in the telegram. It was sent to Nixon, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and several congressmen.

Henry said later the racial tension in north Mississippi is due to a voter registration drive by the NAACP.

"A group of students from Seton Hall University in New Jersey, black and white kids, have been helping with the voter drive and there's tension because some of the whites in the communities are irked that white students are staying with black families," Henry said.

The three whites—two brothers and their nephew—were arrested in nearby Cleveland early Wednesday and murder charges were filed by County Atty. Frank Crosthwait Jr.

The three were identified as Wesley Parks, 26, of Memphis, Tenn.; Wayne Parks, 25, of Drew; and Allen Wilkerson, 19, of Memphis.

The victim was hit in the neck by a single shot from a passing car as she stood with a small group of blacks in front of a grocery store.

"It is doubtful if they even knew Miss Collier," Henry said. "Apparently they were out to kill a black, any black."

Authorities gave no explanation for the shooting of the girl, but Crosthwait said an intensive investigation was under way.

In the telegram to Nixon, Henry said Edgar Higginbottom, an Ecru, Miss., Negro, was shot and killed by a white Friday night.

Henry said Eddie McClinton, a black war veteran, was shot three times and killed by a white Sunday night in the Tallahatchie County town of Sumner. McClinton was killed while using a serve-yourself gas station pump, the NAACP official said.

Tallahatchie County Sheriff E. R. Dogan said as far as he knows McClinton wasn't shot. "There was nothing unusual" about McClinton's death, Dogan said. However, the sheriff said he did not investigate and referred a reporter to his deputy, A. J. Downs.

"We ain't giving out any information," Downs said.

Authorities in Pontotoc County said Jake Denton, an Ecru grocer, was charged with murder in the Higginbottom slaying. Denton waived a preliminary hearing and was released on a $10,000 bond, sheriff's deputies said.

Voting Act Violations Claimed in Mississippi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department acting chief of the Justice Department's civil rights division says some Mississippi counties are violating the Voting Rights Act but most are expecting to comply soon.

Asst. Atty. Gen. David L. Norman's optimism was not shared Wednesday by members of a House judiciary subcommittee critical of the department's performance in Mississippi.

"This kind of nonenforcement is not what Congress had in mind when it passed the Voting Rights Act," said Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the panel.

Edwards said Jones County, Miss., has restored the names of less than half the 34,000 voters stricken from the rolls since March 1.

The subcommittee, which is looking into the Justice Department's enforcement of the act, was also unhappy that Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell turned down its invitation to testify.

"The question of eliminating racism in American politics is of high enough moment that we should hear from Atty. Gen. Mitchell, not a representative of his," Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., said.

Go to Him?

Conyers said the subcommittee should consider meeting with Mitchell in his Justice Department office if he is unable to come to the Capitol.

The subcommittee is investigating enforcement of a Voting Rights Act provision requiring seven Southern states to get prior approval from the attorney general before changing their voting laws or procedures.

Mitchell, who has been quoted as saying the provision is unenforceable, tried to get it eliminated when Congress extended the Voting Rights Act last year.

Norman said the department will ask Congress to amend the law to allow a hearing examiner to consider voting changes that raise complex issues, with final approval or disapproval left to the courts.

Norman said 29 Mississippi counties have thrown out their old registration rules and are requiring voters to re-register, but only five counties have received Justice Department approval.

Norman said two counties have said they will not submit their plans but that he expected the others to do so.

"If they don't do it within the next week, and they say they won't, we'll take action," he said. He described the position of the two holdout counties, Coahoma and Pike, as "tentative reluctance" and said he expected them to comply, too.

Norman said the subcommittee should not assume the Mississippi re-registration was going to disenfranchise any Negro voters. In any event, he said, "There will be ample time before the election in August to clear up any problems."

Mississippi Atty. Gen. A. F. Summer, said his state's re-districting was the result of redistricting required by the 1970 census.

"It is not a great conspiracy to deprive anyone of his rights," he said.

Asked by Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., whether re-registration always followed redistricting in Mississippi, Summer was unable to recall any other occasion.

Telegraphers Order Strike For Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO United Telegraph Workers has ordered a nationwide strike of some 17,000 Western Union workers at 12:01 a.m. Monday, and a union leader said the walkout appears unavoidable.

"I don't see any chance of getting it settled," said union president E. L. Hageman, who said the union is demanding a two-year contract including 16 per cent in wage hikes each year. The workers now average $3.47 per hour, he said.

The current contract expires at midnight Sunday.

"The company hasn't offered us a penny for wage increases," offering only some minor improvements, Hageman said in an interview.

He said chief company negotiators Gerald P. Kent told the union there would be no wage hike unless the Federal Communications Commission first approved telegraph rate hikes. He said Kent asked the union for a contract extension.

"We rejected this and told the company the question of whether Western Union is entitled to a rate increase should be settled by the FCC and the company and is not a matter for collective bargaining," Hageman said.

The union represents all Western Union employees across the nation except for some 2,500 in New York City represented by the AFL-CIO communications Workers. The New York contract also expires at midnight Sunday, but the Communications Workers so far has announced no strike plans.

3 Killed in Explosion at Rocket Plant

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (AP) — An explosion ripped through the interior of a rocket repair facility at the Hawthorne Naval Ammunition Depot Wednesday. Three civilian employees were killed and the 27 others in the block-long concrete building were injured. Five remained hospitalized today.

A Navy board of inquiry began an investigation of the cause.

The depot, with 1,400 civilian employees, is the main ammunition supply point for Pacific naval operations.

The blast occurred in a building where 3.5 inch Marine Corps rockets were being repaired and modified. A base spokesman said damage to the building's interior was "considerable."

The spokesman identified the dead as Willie J. Brantley of Babbitt, Nev., and Virginia Rindknecht and Constance B. Frees, both of Hawthorne.

Of those hospitalized, two were listed in serious condition. The ammunition assembly, repair and loading facility is about 130 miles southeast of Reno.

Podgorny, Sadat Maintain United Front With Speeches

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat maintained a united front in speeches at a Cairo banquet Wednesday night despite Sadat's recent purge of the most pro-Soviet members of his regime.

The two presidents condemned U.S. support of Israel, although Sadat indicated he will keep talking with Washington in an effort to reach an agreement allowing him to reopen the Suez Canal.

Podgorny and Sadat talked privately for an hour Wednesday in what an Egyptian official described as a "friendly and important session," then instructed their aides to make a detailed joint study of Soviet-Egyptian relations.

Unruled insert in 3-36 podgorny to sadat A2

Qualified informants said the Soviets pledged continued support to Sadat in a bid to maintain "cordial relations." And Podgorny at a banquet given for him Wednesday night said Sadat's speech on May 20—after the purge—evoked a "feeling of satisfaction" in the Soviet people, because it expressed "unwavering support" of the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser's policies.

Although Podgorny obviously came to Cairo to assess the situation in the wake of Sadat's purge of leading leftists he charged were plotting to overthrow him, there was no public mention of the power struggle or the arrest of such Kremlin supporters as Vice President Aly Sabry, Information Minister Mohamed Fayek and presidential aide Sami Sharaf.

Instead the two presidents, in their speeches at the banquet, concentrated their fire on the U.S. government and accused it of sabotaging peace efforts in the Middle East by its continued support of Israel.

Sadat said his government has told Washington it regards continued military and financial backing for Israel as "tantamount to participation in the occupation of our land."

"The whole world realizes now that the sole support to Israel's continued aggression comes from the United States and that America thus is in effect spoiling all peace efforts and pushing the Middle East to a flash point of incalculable consequences," Sadat declared.

38 GIs Died in Combat

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that 38 Americans died in combat in Indochina last week. It was the highest total in three weeks, but it did not include all of the 30 men killed in three North Vietnamese shelling attacks last Friday.

A spokesman for the command, Maj. Richard Gardner, said he did not know how many of the 30 were included and how many were not. He said those who were not were omitted because of delays in the reporting system. Gardner said the rest would be included in this week's total, which will be announced next Thursday.

Another 50 Americans were wounded in the three attacks, all of which were made on U.S. bases in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces. Most of the casualties occurred at a base called Charlie 2, just below the demilitarized zone.

The weekly summary reported 92 Americans wounded in action last week, a sharp drop from 240 the previous week and the lowest total since Jan. 3-9, when 83 were reported. But the total did not include all 50 wounded in the three shelling.

OEO Grant for State Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $700,000 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity has been awarded to a program for assisting itinerant farm workers in Wisconsin, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said Tuesday.

Spokesman for the United Migrant Opportunity Services in Milwaukee said the funds, similar to a 1970 appropriation, are aimed at vocational training and relocation of farm workers in 33 Wisconsin counties.

Sen. Taft to be Stand-in For Nixon in Ohio Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I do not feel the activities of Sen. Robert Taft Jr., announced today he would be a favorite son candidate for president obligated to President Nixon in Ohio's 1972 presidential election.

Taft, at a news conference, said he took the action in an effort to keep outside influences from attempting to embarrass Nixon in the 1972 elections.

"I invite all Ohio Republican leaders to join with me to make sure that the delegation sent to the 1972 convention will be as one, solidly pledged to support the renomination and re-election of President Richard M. Nixon," Taft said.

Taft said there were signs that forces from outside Ohio were plotting to embarrass the President in Republican primaries throughout the country.

Retailers Oppose Loss Of Tax Collection Fee

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Commercial trade associations have begun a quiet campaign to persuade the legislature to reject Gov. Patrick Lucey's plan to eliminate the 2 per cent share of the retailer in the collection of the state sales tax.

Involved in the contest is about $7,500,000 a year that would be gained by the state treasury, and correspondingly lost to the vendors of goods and services subject to the sales levy.

The so-called "retailers' discount" has been a part of the sales tax structure since the state ventured into the general sales tax field for the first time early in the last decade. Backers of the idea defended it by asserting that the merchant and dealer in effect was being drafted as a collector of revenue for the state treasury, that his clerical and accounting costs would rise as a result, and that some reimbursement by the state was therefore fair.

Political observers at the time reckoned that the device was of some help to the legislature in reducing the resistance in the retailing community to the adoption of the sales tax which had long been used in many states, but had been resisted here.

Most of the major branches of retail trade in Wisconsin are represented at the capitol by trade association secretaries or professional lobbyists instructed to support their interests. Their collective impact is sometimes strong.

The governor made no reference to his reasoning when he described his complex tax package to the legislature early in the year, but his secretary of revenue, Edward Wiegner, in extensive testimony before the legislative joint finance committee, later described its purpose as the promotion of "equity" as well as revenue production.

The apparent reference was to the fact that the state for a decade has also drafted employers into its tax collection service, in effect, by requiring them to withhold state income taxes from wage and salary payrolls, at some additional cost in the operation of their businesses or professions.

Some employer objection to that plan was voiced when it was conceived, at about the same time that the state levied the first general sales tax, but the state has not extended any "discount" concession to the employing community.

Political observers at the time reckoned that the device was of some help to the legislature in reducing the resistance in the retailing community to the adoption of the sales tax which had long been used in many states, but had been resisted here.

Gresham Facility Eyed for Training State Patrolmen

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Despite opposition from western Wisconsin lawmakers, the Joint Finance Committee recommended 8-5 Wednesday that the state buy a religious novitiate in Shawano County for a State Patrol Academy.

Such training is now administered at Camp McCoy near Tomah and the measure to buy the Alexian Brothers Novitiate, near Gresham authored by State Rep. Herbert Groover, D-Shawano, has been fought principally by Sen. Raymond Johnson, R-Eau Claire.

Under the bill, the Transportation Department would buy the novitiate for up to $914,000. Officials say another $115,000 would be needed to remodel it.

Purchase of the novitiate has been under study for several months, and many officials claim the asking price is a bargain.

The committee also endorsed, 9-4, a bill aimed at providing an extra $6 million in the next biennium by imposing a premium tax of up to 2 per cent on mutual fire and casualty insurance firms. It is aimed at preventing mutuals from maintaining their advantage over stock firms, which currently are taxed.

Also recommended for passage was a bill to reroute Wisconsin 27 between Augusta and Black River Falls through Fairchild and Merrillan, instead of an Interstate 94.

Environmental Package Endorsed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Gov. Patrick Lucey's environmental protection bills introduced following his Earth Day speech to the legislature won a warm reception in an Assembly Natural Resources Committee public hearing Wednesday.

The first of three bills in his package attracted only favorable comments, similar to a hearing in the Senate Natural Resources committee last week on Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's environmental protection package. However, few of the persons appearing in behalf of the attorney general's bills were present to support the governor's proposals.

Under consideration were bills that would consider each day pollutants were dumped into state waters a separate violation; prohibit discharge of untreated domestic waste into springs, wells, marshes and ground water as well as surface water; and permit citizens to sue polluters in state courts without proof of personal damages.

Tough Stand

Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber, speaking in behalf of the state administration, told the committee the bills represent the administration's commitment "to a tough stand in dealing with polluters."

Schreiber said the bills would provide the state, and its citizens with tools to protect the environment and to supplement some strong legislation already passed in recent years.

Militant Jews Press Bernstein To Aid Cause

NEW YORK (AP) — Militant Jews are asking conductor-composer Leonard Bernstein to add their campaign against alleged Soviet oppression of Jews to his list of causes.

Bernstein gave a fund-raising party last year for Black Panthers and another recently for eight persons indicted by a federal grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa., on charges that they conspired to blow up heating tunnels under several government buildings in Washington, D.C., and kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger.

About 10 Jewish Defense League members picketed Bernstein's Manhattan apartment building Wednesday. They carried signs that included one reading: "Leonard Bernstein, remember you're a Jew."

of Wisconsin law school professor who worked recently for the activist Environmental Protection Fund in New York reported their part in drafting the legislation.

John Beale, deputy secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, said the department and its board were instrumental in designing the laws based on their experiences in the last five years administering existing environmental protection laws. They close up several loopholes and expand public participation in environmental protection, he said.

Unenforceable

James Kurtz, an attorney for the department said the present discharge law is unenforceable. It is not possible to prosecute municipalities for by passing springs, wells, marshes, and untreated waste from waste treatment plants, he said. They now can only be prosecuted for failure to comply with departmental orders against bypassing, as the Neenah-Menasha sewerage district is now being prosecuted by the Attorney General's office.

Present statutes lump all pollutant dumping offenses into a single violation.

Rep. James J. Lynn, D-West Allis, supported the measure, saying the present penalty—a fine of between $10 and $200, 30 days imprisonment, or both—can hardly be viewed as a deterrent.

Old Law Restrictive

The second proposal would broaden an existing law against discharging untreated sewage into surface waters to apply to all state waters, including springs, wells, marshes, and ground water.

Department of Natural Resources spokesman Jim Kurtz said the original legislation was narrowly written before authorities knew the damaging potential untreated wastes pose to all state waters. He praised inclusion of an enforcement cause in the bill.

The last bill, hailed by some as "a mandate for everybody to sue everybody," gives citizens the opportunity to protect their right to a clean environment by allowing them to sue pollution cases in state courts without proof of special damages.

Public Nuisances

It also calls activities which pollute, impair, or destroy natural resources "public nuisances," though it fails to spell out what that phrase means, critics of the proposal said.

Kurtz admitted he could foresee problems unless a more explicit definition of public nuisance was included.

Leo W. Roethe, president of the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation, supported all three measures, saying "the great outdoors has become a giant disposal system, and unless something is done about it, society may well commit all of its resources to frivolous purposes."

Prof. James B. MacDonald of the University of Wisconsin law school claimed the "everybody can sue everybody" bill will not produce unwieldy caseloads in the state courts. He said only 13 cases have been started in Michigan since it enacted a similar measure seven months ago.

The measures went unopposed. Further provisions of Lucey's environmental package will be presented to the committee next week.

The Drug Problem and Foreign Aid

Senator Walter Mondale of Minnesota has introduced a bill into the Senate which would cut off American aid to nations which do not cooperate in stopping the growth and production of opium from which heroin is made. Congressman Charles Rangel of New York has proposed the same legislation in the House of Representatives.

The legislation is not aimed at China in particular, although one source of the heroin which is causing so many problems among American troops in Indochina is mainland China which has been supplying Southeast Asians with the drug for centuries.

But Senator Mondale's primary targets are two members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Turkey, he says, grows at least 80 per cent of the opium used to make heroin which comes to the United States. And the major processor of the opium into heroin is France.

There is a slight difference in the government attitudes toward the traffic in the two countries. Opium growing is legal in Turkey; the processing business in France is illegal. But Senator Mondale charges that government influence in both cases is minimal, whatever statements have been made about curbing the traffic.

This year the United States gave Turkey $3 million to "encourage a shift in its agricultural production from opium to other crops," writes Mr. Mondale. But, in spite of the official Turkish statement that opium-growing provinces have been cut back from 21 to 4, acreage given over to opium has increased by 5,000 since 1969, according to the State Department. Mr.

Mondale points to the economic and military aid we have given to Turkey — $5½ billion since 1946. He says that in the last three years we have given $100 million more in economic and military aid to Turkey than we have spent in this country to try to treat drug addiction. He also points out that not a single French heroin laboratory has been put out of business in the last 14 months. And now Iran, which formerly prohibited the production of opium, is permitting it, since the production, with its American market, is so lucrative.

This is the major problem. The Turks have been growing opium for generations. They are not a wealthy people. The Turkish officials are probably quite right in assuming that opium would continue to be grown unless adequate substitutions could be found or heavy surveillance begun. In France, too, the laboratories make large profits.

Basically, solving America's drug problem must involve finding out its cause. The news of the widespread use of hard drugs among American troops in Indochina is a sound indication that the hard line doesn't work and that there is a general national malaise concerning the war, the racial tensions, the failure of our government to come to grips with serious domestic issues.

But the availability of drugs certainly contributes to the problem. As Senator Mondale points out, it can hardly be considered merely the problem of the United States when some of our allies are helping to provide substances that have killed many and seriously damaged, often permanently, thousands of Americans.

How to Interpret the Youth Vote

In spite of doubts expressed in some states a couple of years ago about the wisdom of lowering the voting age to 18, it seems likely that enough states will ratify the 26th Amendment to the United States Constitution to permit the younger voting age in national elections. Because of the confusion and extra cost of double ballots, it is also probable that the majority of states in the nation will lower the age for state elections accordingly.

But no one has been able to predict with certainty what this will mean in American politics.

There is the concern in university towns that a large number of young people voting in local elections might change the makeup and attitudes of various boards and governmental agencies. The argument that students are only temporary residents and should not therefore determine such matters for future years is well taken but the same sort of argument was rejected as far as military troops were concerned some years ago. Different states may enact restrictions, however.

But what will the young vote mean overall in the nation? Will there be a considerable change, both in the election campaigns to lure the younger voters and in the results? It's difficult to tell.

In spite of both dire predictions and optimistic views, there hasn't been much change in voting majorities since the 19th Amendment giving women the vote some fifty years ago was approved. Many women apparently vote as do their husbands or their fathers although their influence has been clearly felt in encouraging some people to run for office and in some issues that are promoted. This may be more true in future years as what may be a minority of women, but a vocal one, pushes various aspects of women's liberation programs.

The efforts to encourage voting by minority groups, especially blacks, has brought some changes in recent years. Several southern areas have black officials for the first time in history. Even if President Nixon has generally written off the black vote, members of his Administration are sensitive enough to try to make some concessions to blacks as well as to the poor and urban dwellers, both of which groups have a high percentage of Negroes and other minority groups such as Puerto Ricans and Chicanos. A strong appeal by Democrats in the 1972 elections to such minorities and others who feel disillusioned or disfranchised could swing the presidential election.

Since there is so much publicity concerning the generation gap, the effort by many young people to drop out of our culture which they claim is based only on money and hedonism, the emphasis by the young on the environment and demands to clean up polluted areas, concern for the poor, and deep opposition to the war and the military, it might appear that future campaigns and elections will be quite different. But we suspect that the majority of those who deeply criticize the life styles, attitudes and incentives of their elders are those of the upper and middle class white society. They are students in top levels of their high school classes or in college — or dropouts from either. The real revolutionaries and those who are merely hooked on the drug culture probably won't bother to vote at all, either from disbelief in the system or plain apathy.

But there are thousands of young people who may simply go along with the beliefs and, yes, the prejudices, of their parents. If there are many, then voting patterns won't change much at all.

However, the recent conference of young people, chosen from many elements of society, gave some answers to the question and if they are borne out in the future we can expect changes. There was more emphasis upon the domestic problems of the nation, backing of the legalization of pot, absolute opposition to the war, much more trust of everything except the Establishment and still a firm wish to make reforms through approved channels. There could be some major changes in future elections.

Up the Lake and Back by Boat

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for May 18, 1871.

One of the most pleasant trips to take during the summer months is from Green Bay up the lake on board the steamer Northwestern.

This vessel leaves Green Bay for Oconto shortly after the arrival of the morning train. It remains in Oconto about two hours and returns to the Bay in time to make connection with the train that leaves for Chicago about six o'clock.

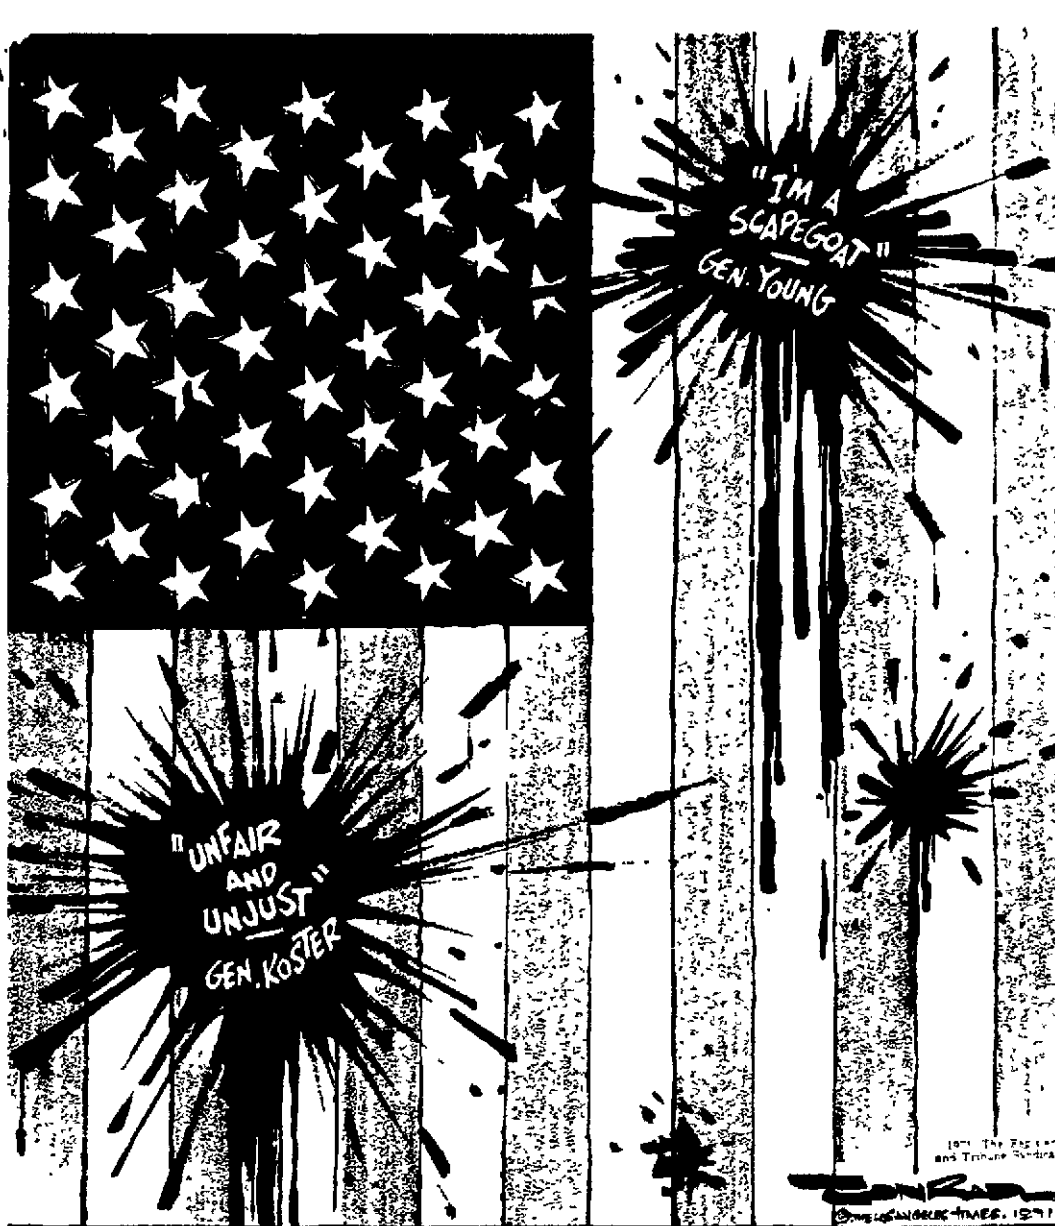

H. W. Hart is Captain of the boat and C. S. Hart is clerk.

Both of these gentlemen are well adapted to administer to the comfort of passengers and they allow no opportunity of this kind to pass unimproved. Another boat equally well managed is the steamer Saginaw, running from Green Bay to Escanaba. Of this vessel J. F. Trowell is Captain and John Lanagan Clerk.

We are indebted to the officers of both these vessels for courtesies received while on a recent trip to Oconto.

Bear Creek High School were Mary Smith, who presented the class history; Harold Smith, class will; Junior Lehman, prophecy; Mary Golden, who presented a violin solo; and Principal R. A. Baldwin, presenting the diplomas. The student speakers were valedictorians Jack Reinke and Neil Mares. Presenting the address was Quincy Doudna, director of rural education, Central State Teachers College, Stevens Point.

On the Right Intellectuals Break With Castro Over Poet's Case

By William F. Buckley Jr.

Sixty American and European intellectuals, among whom the most conspicuous are Jean-Paul Sartre, Susan Sontag, and Alberto Moravia, have sternly protested the humiliation of the poet Heberto Padilla by Fidel Castro. Indeed their remonstrance is so firm that a French expert on Latin America, M. Marcel Niedergang, comments in Le Monde that — in the paraphrase of the New York Times — "the letter marked the effective break of European, United States and Latin American intellectuals with the Cuban regime that they enthusiastically supported in the nineteen sixties."

Heberto Padilla is a youngish poet who elected to stay in Cuba after Castro took power. His mother, his father, his brother, and his sister, took off, and settled down in various parts of the United States, where they have not been tortured once, so far as the record shows. Mr. Padilla, a gifted poet, began to give expression to his reservations about Castro's Cuba, and in due course he was detained. Thirty-eight days later, a "confession" was issued over his signature, in which the poet described himself as ignoble, unjust, cowardly, treacherous, and untruthful. Improves on Stalin

Thirty-eight days to secure a confession of that sort suggests that Fidel Castro may even have advanced Josef Stalin's art. What Castro cannot do with the sugar harvest, he has succeeded in doing with a Cuban poet: indeed, perhaps the 38 days it took him to break the spirit of Padilla will suggest the spirit of achievement of the 26 of July movement. Perhaps we can look forward to a 38 Year Plan?

As for the intellectuals, the letter of protest suggests that what offends them most is that Castro should have betrayed their confidence in him. The broken body of Padilla is a rebut to their self-esteem. Now ladies and gentlemen, it becomes very important to bear in mind that we are talking now about people who consider themselves the brightest in the whole world. Jean-Paul Sartre simply takes it for granted that the intellectual history of civilization is a pretty straight line from Aristotle to himself, with perhaps a genial pause, along the way, with Copernicus and Hegel. Susan Sontag summarizes her world-view with the observation that the white race is the cancer of history, and is no doubt especially troubled to have to criticize a member of the Third World. Alberto Moravia is a Communist. Miss Sontag is too young, but Moravia and Sartre have been around for years, apologizing for the Communists. Along with Miss Sontag, and others, they proclaimed Castro's revolution as — the words they use in their reproachful letter — "a model in the realm of socialism."

Reply From Castro

About the time they first began uttering those words in behalf of Castro, a small magazine in New York, hearing that a Cuban journalist, Ernesto de la Fe, was about to be executed by Castro, sent a young reporter down to interview him. A cable to Castro's office elicited a reply, of which the following are excerpts. The date was May 4, 1959:

"Dr. Castro already answered your ambiguous question . . . He said de la Fe was the Paul Goebbels of Cuba . . . Ernesto was a paid informer, a crime which carries the death penalty in war . . . Since de la Fe is a Fascist and a traitor, can he be anti-Communist? I think not. He uses that banner to cover up his own crimes. There is very little difference between any Fascist and any Communist. A skunk by any other name would still . . . Your defense of Ernesto de la Fe puts you in quite a spot. Since you are defending a Fascist and a traitor people will wonder whether you actually hate Communism or merely use that banner for ulterior motives." (Signed) Dr. Juan A. Orta, Director General.

It isn't known whether Ernesto de la Fe is alive or dead. Dr. Orta, presumably, has long since been shot, imprisoned, or liberated, for the sin of equating Fascism with Communism. But the rhetoric, away back in May of 1959 when Castro was affecting to be non-Communist, was revealing enough for junior clerks to get the message. But not for Nobel prize winners to get the message. One would think that in tribute to the future Padillas who will be seduced by the political advice of such as Sartre, Sontag and Moravia, that they would, as an act of contrition for having helped Castro entrench himself in power, publicly renounce any future role as political advisors to a world so substantially tyrannized by their political stupidity.

Property Tax Boosts Penalize People On Fixed Incomes

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Statehouse politicians for the last decade and more have declaimed about their achievements in property tax "relief" as they talked about school aids, about new tax sharing arrangements with localities that are credited to property tax liability of individual property owners, highway maintenance grants and aid in many other categories.

But the fact is that when the boastful claims are analyzed against the rise in costs of municipal governments the degree of dependence by local governments upon the property tax has not significantly changed.

For a short period early in the decade of the 1960s the ratio of property taxes to total local government revenues declined slightly, and perhaps as a result of state assistance arrangements authorized by the legislatures of the period.

But lately the ratio has begun to rise again. The last period for which official state government information is available is 1968-69, when 43.3 per cent of local government revenues in the state as a whole represented levies upon property.

Nears 50 Per Cent

The more than usual rate of increase in property levies in aggregate dollars in the two succeeding years makes it likely that the property tax ratio has risen since that time and may now be approaching again the 50 per cent level of a decade ago.

The trend means that the legislators, governors and others involved in politics at the Capitol have not achieved the "relief" about which they love to talk, and have barely managed to maintain the modern historical ratio of state participation in local financing.

Meanwhile, the total of property tax dollars levied has increased more rapidly than property tax valuation, notwithstanding the heavy force of inflation during the period.

For those persons whose earnings were rising, the skyrocketing property levies were not especially burdensome. But there are scores of thousands of persons whose earnings were not rising, who were the victims of inflation because they were living on fixed or declining incomes.

No Promise of Relief
For them the property tax pressure has been cruel and inexorable. For them the terrifying reality is that there is no real promise of relief.

If any governor ever had a mandate in the election returns based upon the basic theme of his successful campaign for votes, it was Gov. Patrick Lucey last November after his exploitation of the property tax problem. But the Lucey prescription in his fiscal program presented to this legislature is a token merely.

This does not mean that he has chosen to abandon his implied assurances to the beleaguered home, farm and general property owners in the typical high tax jurisdictions. It means, although he can scarcely afford to say so, that he has regretfully learned that his assurances of relief were too casually made. He has now learned that for all of the pressure on the issue, there are others that must be accommodated and that they are not compatible.

Personal Experience

The governor recently had an experience that was an ironic reminder of the incongruity of a tax scheme that fails to take into account ability to pay. At the request of a reporter he made public his state income tax for 1970. Most persons will quickly recognize that for a man of his extensive interests an income tax bill of $1,000 is a tell-tale sign that it was a poor year for him. He probably paid three times that amount in property taxes on his luxurious home.

That bill did not inconvenience him. He has ample means in gains of earlier years. But he doubtless knows many persons, including old friends in his native Crawford County, who don't worry about income taxes, but are nevertheless pressed to pay the levies upon far more modest homes and look in vain for relief.

Thoughts at Large Offered by Harris

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The trouble with most knowledge is that it will not stop at what it does not know; and this is precisely the place at which wisdom begins.

The best lawyers are those who comprehend most fully the case that the other side is able to make out; thus, the person who knows only his own side of the case is the poorest defender of that position.

A father who wants his son to be a "credit" to him is unconsciously treating the child like an asset, and has only himself to blame if the boy rebels into a liability.

Two persons who didn't care much for each other at school may meet 30 years later with cordial embraces, not signifying friendship so much as a kind of mutual self-congratulation that both are still alive.

There are only two things no one will willingly admit: a deficiency in the ability to love, and a deficiency in humor; yet, objectively speaking, it seems as if half the population is defective in one or the other; else our society would be far warmer and merrier than it is.

We are still in the infancy of civilization, if we use that word as precisely as Bernanos, when he observed: "Civilization exists specifically so that there may be no 'masses,' but rather men alert enough never to constitute masses."

The faculty that is most taken for granted by most of us is actually the rarest ability — and that is, to see what we really see.

Despite Bobbie Burns, if we were given the gift of seeing ourselves as others see us, we would hotly denounce the portrait as an arrant forgery.

The egotistic person aims at eliciting respect from those around him; what he fails to understand is that anything deliberately done to elicit respect immediately cancels itself out and forfeits that respect. (Self-consciousness immediately turns any virtue into its counterfeit.)

Wildlife Bill Gets High-Level Support

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Ranking members of both houses of the legislature have called for a Wisconsin endangered species list of species that may be threatened with extinction within the state.

The federal act provides for the protection of species threatened with world-wide extinction by prohibiting the importation of endangered fish and wildlife by regulating interstate and foreign commerce.

The bill proposed as the basis for a Wisconsin law would be operative within Wisconsin and would incorporate the federal list of endangered species into Wisconsin law and direct the state department of natural resources to prepare a similar list of species that may be threatened with extinction within the state.

The DNR list would have the effect of law in prohibiting the destruction of any fish, bird or animal named, and would be required to be completed within 90 days after the enactment of the proposed legislation.

Among the authors of the supplementary proposal for Wisconsin law are Sen. Fred Risser of Madison, leader of the Democratic minority in the state senate, and Rep. Bert Grover of Shawano, assistant leader of the assembly's Democratic majority.

The department would be required to make continuing inventories of the wildlife conditions in the state, for possible amendments to the endangered species list.

The bill would define "fish and wildlife" as including any species or sub-species of any mammal, fish, wild bird, amphibian, reptile, mollusk or crustacean, any part, products, egg or offspring thereof, or the dead body of parts thereof.

Taking possession or sale of any such species would be expressly prohibited, under substantial penalty.

The legislation would also authorize DNR to use state funds for the purchase of lands where such acquisition would contribute to the protection of species that may be in danger of extinction.

Yugoslavs Master Self-Management

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
Associated Press Writer
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Employees of the Galenika drug factory voted free lunches for themselves, under Communist Yugoslavia's "worker self-management" system.

Self-management — initiated fleetingly by the Paris Commune 100 years ago—is now two decades old in Yugoslavia. It still tends to be looked upon with bafflement by the West and suspicion by the East. Yugoslavs admit the system poses plenty of problems, but they insist they'll keep it as a version of "worker power" unknown to the rest of the world.

The 4,000-employee drug factory here is an example of how it works.

The free lunch idea first occurred six years ago to an ordinary worker, somebody such as Mira, a laboratory apprentice whose base salary is $90 a month. Mira and everybody else at Galenika, Yugoslavia's second biggest pharmaceutical and cosmetics concern, votes for one of 13 workers' committees, each of which represents a division.

Workers Council

The division where the lunch idea began sent it along to the workers' council, the factory's supreme body whose 57 members are elected by the 13 committees for two-year terms.

The council talked it over with director general whom it had hired from applicants answering an "executive wanted" ad.

It took three years of discussions but, says Deputy Director Ervin Jenc, "the money was there, and the will, so we got free lunches."

Now Mira saves a badly needed dollar a day. So does Jenc.

Another worker's proposal, for a coffee break, did not fare so well. "It was decided there would be too much loitering," says Jenc. "The workers' council voted it down."

Momentous Matters

Of course, the council, which meets at least six times a year, often has more momentous matters to deal with. Well over half of the council is made up of ordinary blue collar workers and clerks, so it must in practice depend on the directors' expertise for management of the company. But the council does ratify the budget, and decides how to split up the profits.

Last year it voted 16 months of salary to everybody—from Jenc, who makes $200 a month, down to Mira in the lab.

The company could afford it. Gross income last year was $43.7 million, an increase of more than 18 per cent from the year before. Nearly $2.3 million went to the federal government in taxes and social security. Net profit was $12 million.

When Jenc retires next year at 61, after the required 40 years of work, he will get a state pension. Mira, who is 26, also gets central government support in the form of pregnancy benefits and free medical care.

Price Products

Other than this, the central government has little hand in ordinary labor relations and Galenika can produce, market and price its products pretty much as it pleases.

Self-management, nevertheless, has its problems, both inside and outside the factory.

The free market economy has produced both very rich and very poor self-managed companies. Last year 1,800 Yugoslav companies had deficits. That was 13 per cent of all enterprises, and they employed 14 per cent of total manpower.

To avoid unemployment, rich industries have to help support poor ones through central government funding. This some-expected to be included in the times feeds rivalries between study.

richer and poorer republics, or states, which have historic differences already.

Industrial decisions are sometimes made by bureaucrats and Communist party officials on political considerations.

Suggest Merger

It's a far cry from the post-war days when companies like Galenika were formed by a central government ministry, but nowadays a state council or a local branch of the Yugoslav Communist party can "suggest," for instance, that a wealthy company merge with a poorer one.

Since private ownership of property is not possible except on a small, individual scale, anybody wanting to start an enterprise has to get the blessing of the local town council. It also can decide on the basis of politics.

Another self-management problem is that workers often lack the background for the large decisions they are called upon to make in workers' councils.

Jenc estimates that up to one-fifth of any factory's council is made up of workers with virtually no education and little skill.

"Elections can be on the basis of popularity only," he says. "We're lucky because we have no illiterate workers here, but we still have to give special courses in economics to a few of the people who join our council."

Do Anything

The workers have the power to do almost anything with a factory. One group in a glue concern simply gave the factory away to a larger distant company when townspeople complained of the smell. The workers theoretically can even sell their factory—though they can't divide the proceeds.

The Soviets ridicule the system as impractical because too many people are involved in making decisions. But Jenc, a manager for 21 years, says: "If you approach a problem seriously, you can settle it with the workers in 15 days."

There's no doubt that the system has given Yugoslavia the highest standard of living in any Communist country. This is President Josip Broz Tito's ultimate comeback to Soviet critics who come to Belgrade. "They swarm around our shops like bees," he once said of them, "and then they criticize us."

Communities Okay Sewage Facility Study

KAUKAUNA — Officials of four communities agreed Monday night to authorize Donohue Engineering Inc., Sheboygan, to undertake a feasibility study on combined efforts of sewerage treatment. Cost of the study is estimated at $4,000.

Officials, representing Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Combined Locks, also agreed the cost of the study would be shared equally by the communities involved. All agreed such a study was necessary to determine whether economic advantages would result from such a joint venture.

The study will include work needed at the three treatment plants involved to provide tertiary treatment which has been ordered installed by the state effective December, 1972.

Future phasing out of smaller treatment plants will also be considered in the survey. Federal assistance grants, types of sewer connecting lines, lift stations needed and all other aspects of a joint venture are expected to be included in the study.

Proxmire Seeks Forced Wage,
Price Guides

Administration's
Efforts on Inflation
Called Too Timid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criticizing Nixon administration steps to control inflation as "timid, isolated and erratic," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says he'll introduce legislation next week to compel the President to set voluntary price and wage guideposts.

"We need a systematic, continuing incomes policy which would be conducted at all times as a matter of law," Proxmire said. "And we need to begin this policy now."

"Let me stress that I am talking about a policy of voluntary compliance by business and labor," Proxmire said, "not a system of mandatory price controls."

The senator said his bill also would require the President to study other steps to restore full employment without inflation and to give Congress his findings no later than next Jan. 20.

Proxmire commented in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate Thursday.

First Guideposts

He said the first guideposts would be set up as soon as possible after the bill was enacted. Guideposts would be thereafter required in the President's annual economic report.

He said President Nixon has taken some steps in the direction of guideposts—such as his effort to restrain steel prices—and said Nixon need not wait for the bill to be enacted to act.

"We must look at incomes policies that have worked," Proxmire said. "We must re-examine income policies that have not worked to discover how they may have been made to work."

"We must re-examine the structure of the economy and measure the contribution which the removal of import quotas, break up of monopoly power, improvements in government improvement, and better natural resource management can make to price stability," Proxmire said.

Airline Bomb
Hoax Reward
Is Offered

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Rewards totaling $56,400 were offered today for capture of the bandits who used a false bomb threat to hoax an Australian airline out of $560,000.

Police kept up a nationwide hunt for the bandits. Serial numbers of the ransom notes were circulated along with an artist's drawing of the man who picked up the cash.

Qantas, Australia's international airline, handed over the $560,000 in two blue suitcases to a man in the heart of Sydney late Wednesday afternoon after a telephone caller told it a bomb was aboard one of the line's Boeing 707s then en route to Hong Kong with 128 persons aboard.

The caller said the bomb was set to go off when the plane got below 20,000 feet. He directed Qantas officials to a locker at the airport where they found such a bomb along with notes telling how to disarm it and promising to give the location of the bomb aboard the plane after the money was paid.

The plane turned back to Sydney, but after the payment another call said there was no bomb aboard it. The plane landed safely with only five minutes gas left.

The man who collected the money escaped in the rush-hour traffic in a small yellow van. The van was found abandoned later.

Sydney newspapers praised Qantas for its handling of the scare.

Members of a New Federal job category called "protective officers" practice riot control with night sticks. The officers, including several women, will be assigned to guard federal officers and courts after they graduate from the school in Atlanta. They also learn the techniques of judo, karate and bomb detection in light of increasing violence. (AP Wirephoto)

Unarmed Black Patrols Keep Restless Chattanooga Quiet

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The replacement of police and National Guardsmen by unarmed black civilians who took over patrols in their neighborhoods appears to have brought calm to the city after five nights of violence.

Police reported little trouble out of the ordinary on city streets Wednesday night.

A 7 p.m. curfew that had been in effect since Saturday night was lifted Wednesday morning by Mayor Robert K. Walker, enabling liquor and beer outlets, restaurants and shopping centers to remain open. National Guardsmen also stopped day patrols.

Walker agreed Tuesday to pull law enforcement officials out of predominantly Negro public housing projects after several black community leaders approached city officials and proposed a cooling-off period.

Doctors to Examine Effects of Cholesterol

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Heart specialists, who have angered dairymen with warnings that fat meat, milk, butter and cheese may contribute to heart disease, have named a study group to try to pinpoint the effects of cholesterol.

Dr. Dean A. Emanuel, an internist at the Marshfield Clinic, told the Wisconsin Heart Association Wednesday night the task force will discuss nutritional values with members of the state's dairy and beef industries.

Emanuel said there is need for a "cooperative program between the dairy and beef industries in Wisconsin and the Wisconsin Heart Association so that we may find a way to help the victims of heart disease both now and in the future."

Emanuel, incoming president of the association, said it is not interested in feuding with dairymen, but only in finding solutions to heart disease.

Some Wisconsin dairymen voted last fall to consider a $500 million lawsuit against the American Heart Association for its admonitions against heavy consumption of butter and other dairy products.

"There is a great deal that we still do not know about arteriosclerosis and coronary artery disease," Emanuel said.

He noted medical authorities have been unable to explain why the Nasai tribesmen of East Africa can eat a diet of two-thirds fat but have a consistently low cholesterol level.

Huey Newton
For June 28

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Black Panther cofounder Huey P. Newton is scheduled for retrial June 28 on charges of killing a white Oakland policeman.

Newton is accused of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting death of officer John Frey on Oct. 18, 1967.

He won reversal of a previous conviction for voluntary manslaughter after serving 22 months of a 2-to-15-year sentence. He has been free on $50,000 bail since last May.

Superior Court Judge William J. Hayes set the new trial date Wednesday after attorney Benjamin Dreyfus asked for "reasonable time" for Panther chief attorney Charles R. Garry to wind up legal matters in New Haven, Conn., and Chicago.

Garry has been defending Panther leaders Bobby Seale and Ericka Huggins on charges in the execution-style slaying of a Panther suspected of being a police informer. He also is involved in Seale's contempt-conspiracy case stemming from the rioting during the 1968 Democratic national convention.

Gimbels Has Difficulty
With Charge Accounts

NEW YORK (AP) — Gimbel Brothers department store reported Wednesday that more than $6 million in delinquent credit and charge accounts had been run up over the past year.

President Bruce Gimbel told stockholders at the annual meeting that all past-due accounts had now been turned over to collection agencies.

He blamed "computer problems and poor supervision" for the difficulty.

10-Year Prison Camp Term
Given Would-be Red Defector

MOSCOW (AP) — Simas Kudirka, the Soviet sailor who was refused asylum by the U.S. Coast Guard last November, linked, Kudirka jumped onto the has been sentenced to 10 years in a prison camp, a court official in Soviet Lithuania said today.

The Lithuanian Supreme Court convicted Kudirka of treason last week, the court spokesman said in a telephone conversation from Vilnius, the Lithuanian capital.

He refused to give any details of the trial. But a 10-year sentence for treason is comparatively light.

There is no appeal from a supreme court sentence less than, and death and therefore no further action in the case was expected.

Kudirka tried to defect to the United States last Nov. 23 when his ship, the Sovetskaya Litva, was in the city of Klaipeda, then later said tied up to the U.S. Coast Guard.

Hotline Funds Denial Urged

Regional Committee Says No

A motion to deny federal training program, with a $2,000 equipment for the City of Green Bay, was approved by the John Feavel, a district supervisor for state probation and parole for the eight-county administrative district, was elected and seated as a new member at large on the committee. The justice group will hold its annual meeting June 14 at the Baileys Harbor Yacht Club.

Madson led the attack, saying, "We're going way overboard in providing funding for the vocational school for equipment that it will use only a portion of the year."

The equipment, including 30 finger print magnifiers and 15 microscopes, is earmarked particularly for 12 weeks of inservice training for district law enforcement personnel.

Madson wondered what would be done with the equipment the remainder of the year. Neenah Police Chief Lester Clark said he hoped it would be available to law enforcement headquarters throughout the district when it wasn't being used at the school.

An application by the City of Appleton for crowd control equipment at the cost of $533 was approved by the committee with the stipulation that more expensive helmets be ordered. The cost of the helmets in the original application was $18. The stipulation doubled the amount, in order to provide better helmets for the squad. An application for recording equipment at a cost of $240 for Manitowish County also was approved. So was a request for funding for sound-slide projector

Coated Paper To Consolidate On June 21

Firm Will Join Combined Paper Of Combined Locks

Appleton Coated Paper Co and the two plants of Combined Paper Mills, Inc., will be officially consolidated June 21 and be called Appleton Papers, Inc. An Appleton Coated spokesman said the firms will be a subsidiary of The National Cash Register Co.

Appleton Coated became a subsidiary of NCR in late 1970 and Combined Paper Mills, Combined Locks, and Roaring Spring, Pa., plants in 1969.

The Appleton Coated spokesman said the move was basically for administrative purposes, mainly to improve coordination between the paper operations. Both firms are in the special products division of NCR.

The spokesman also said the consolidation would have no new effects on employment or management personnel. In December, 1970, Appleton Coated announced a major reorganization change in which five vice presidents and their areas were named. The five also were named to exercise functional responsibility for related areas of Combined Paper Mills.

The five vice presidents of Appleton Papers and their areas are Howard V. Lauer, NCR Paper Division; Paul E. Truttischel, Marketing of Commercial Papers; Thomas W. Busch, Technical Research and Development; Lloyd M. Swaim, Manufacturing; and D. W. Russler, Administration and Finance.

The Appleton Papers combination produces coated papers including carbonless NCR Paper for multiple copy business forms, printing and related papers for the graphic arts, and specialty papers for diverse industrial needs.

Its uncoated bleacher sulfate and chemi-mechanical papers are produced for general printing requirements, computerized and general business forms, textbooks, telephone directories and special application converted products.

Appleton Coated, founded in 1907, has about 700 employees. It is a specialty coater of paper and nonpaper substrates. Combined Papers, which employs about 500 at Combined Locks and 400 at Roaring Spring, has been a major supplier of NCR Paper for years.

Burglars Hit Drug Store

Safe With $1,430 Taken From Firm On Meade Street

A safe, containing $1,430 in cash and change, plus a check for $6,330.13 made out to a securities firm, was stolen Wednesday night from the Ford Revall Drug Store 2725 N. Meade St.

Some of the $1,400 was postal funds from the sale of stamps and other postal items that the pharmacy, a postal substation, sells, authorities said. Post Office investigators are assisting in the investigation, because federal funds were involved.

The break-in was discovered by a patrolman who noticed a door glass shattered about 5:15 a.m. Checking closer, he noticed a rock inside that apparently had been tossed through the glass.

Police said the safe, measuring 24 inches high, 17 inches wide and 18 inches deep, apparently was rolled out of a rear door. Additionally, police said, three money bags from an Appleton bank, their contents unknown, were in the stolen safe.

This is the second time a drug store has been hit by burglars.

Nearly Three-quarters of the Highlands School staff used a different set of wheels to get to school this morning as part of the "teacher's ecology day" activities. It helped demonstrate to the pupils a method of fighting air pollution and limbered up a few muscles for summer sports. ## Realtor Boards Agree to Merger

The Appleton and Neenah-Menasha Boards of Realtors have agreed to consolidate and form a single board to cover the Fox Cities area.

The agreement was announced last week by the presidents of each organization. The consolidated board will begin operation Jan. 1, 1972.

The consolidation will provide a larger Realtor organization, with more unity and strength in serving the public, particularly in community betterment projects. Julian Rowe, Appleton board president, and Frederick Oskar, Neenah-Menasha board president, said, in a joint release.

"In addition," they said, "by consolidation, we feel that we can provide a stronger unified medium for real estate owners on legislation whereby their interests may be safeguarded and advanced."

The consolidation won't have a marked effect on the individual home buyer, although he will notice more cooperation and coordination. Realtors will continue to serve their same areas.

But the presidents assured that "we will have a more concerted effort to further the interests of home and other real property ownership. Through uniformity we will promote and maintain high standards of conduct in the real estate profession as expressed in the code of ethics of the national association."

Separate Lists
The multiple listing services corporations of each board will not be consolidated but continue to be published separately. These listings, which provide a prospective buyer with a total listing of available real estate in an area, will be under the control of the consolidated board.

The consolidation was recommended recently by a joint committee. The name chosen for the new board is Fox Valley Board of Realtors, Inc.

The area covered extends from Kaukauna to Neenah. The Appleton board now includes Kaukauna, Little Chute, Combined Locks, Kimberly and Appleton, and the Neenah-Menasha board, those two cities.

The consolidation still requires approval from the state and national Realtor associations but this is expected later this year.

Concert Set Tonight at Wilson Junior High

The Wilson Junior High School chorus and orchestra will present a spring concert at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Miss Ruthie Potami will direct the 110-voice chorus and Harry Hoecherl, the 45-piece orchestra. Carol Warne and Bonnie Ott will sing a duet. Soloists are Kathy Wilhelm and Jerry Schimmler.

Lawrence to Honor Alumni

Distinguished service to youth and government will be recognized at Lawrence University's 122nd Commencement ceremonies at 8 p.m. June 12th. This will be the first time the university has had commencement on a Saturday evening.

Cited will be Florence Otto, director of the personnel department of the Girl Scouts of the USA; Norman Clapp, secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Transportation; and Kenneth Laird, teacher and football coach at the University School of Milwaukee. Miss Otto graduated from Milwaukee Downer College in 1929. Clapp graduated from Lawrence in 1937, and Laird in 1931.

The ceremony on the main campus, east of Main Hall, will be preceded at 7 p.m. by the Conservatory of Music's traditional symphony band concert at which senior members take turns directing the 65-piece ensemble. At the conclusion of the ceremony, each student will light a candle for the recessionary march across College Avenue to the Music-Drama Center. In case of rain, the ceremony will be in the Memorial Chapel.

Appointed by Lucey
Clapp, appointed to his present post in late 1970 by Gov. Patrick Lucey, began his service to government in 1935 when as a second semester junior at Lawrence he went to Washington as an administrative aide to Sen. Robert M. La Follette Jr. He served two terms with the senator, from 1935-37, and from 1939-42.

Between terms he received his degree and served as investigator and mediator for the Wisconsin Labor Relations Board, and then as a staff member of the National Labor

Demonstration Project Is Scorned by NWRPC

The proposed Fox River water management demonstration project has been scorned by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, in the latest eruption of bad blood between that agency and the Fox Valley Council of Government (COG).

Gerald P. Paul, Northeastern hydrologist, dismissed the scope of the proposed project — Lake Winnebago and the Lower Fox — as too small, and complained that his agency has not been in on planning the project.

A COG spokesman replied that the claim of having been left out is untrue, adding that Northeastern ignored an early invitation to participate.

Northeastern's comments were invited by COG as part of the process of seeking a federal grant. The project depends on having the Fox chosen for a multi-million dollar federal demonstration of water management and treatment techniques.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency is considering the Fox along with several other rivers across the nation for the one-of-a-kind grant. Competition reportedly is heavy.

Invitations for comments went to Northeastern and numerous other agencies and communities as part of the process of clearing the application for submission to federal officials.

"Not Invited"
Paul told Michaels that Northeastern is oriented toward river basin planning and water management, "yet you have not sent any demonstration project details to this office, nor have we been invited to attend any of your project planning meetings."

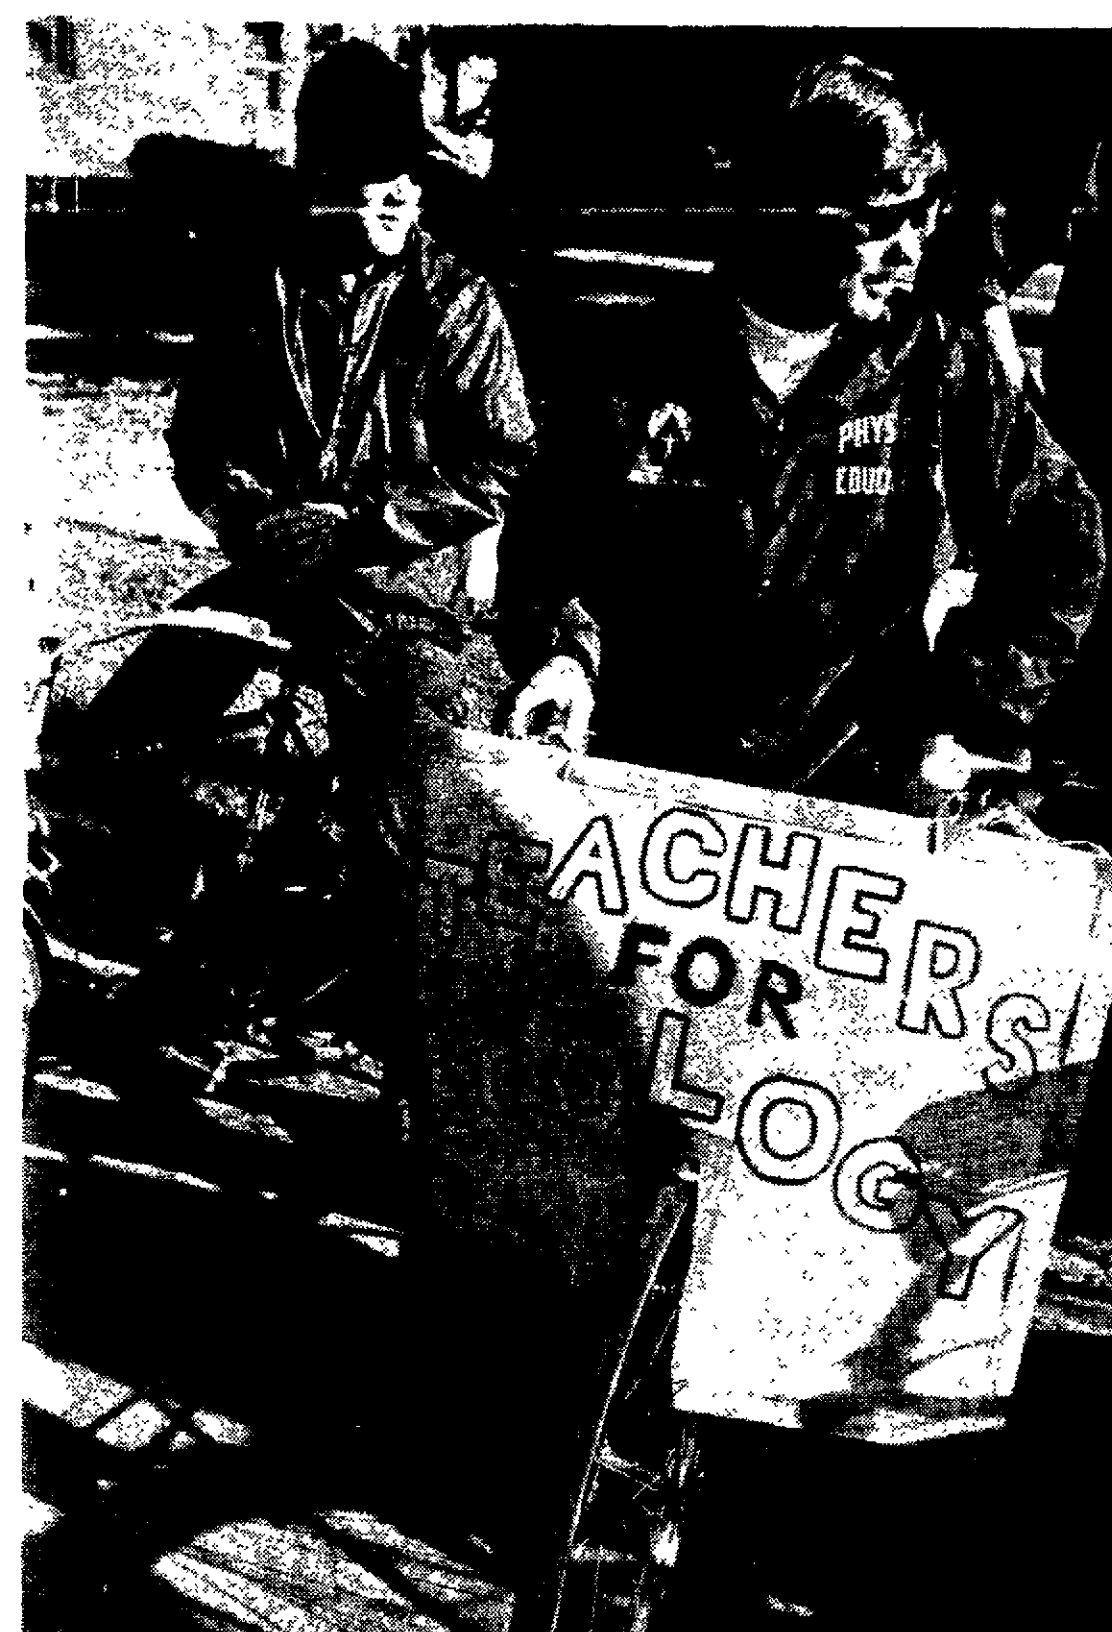

The impact pushed the Green truck into another pickup truck owned by Vincent Smaxwell, 831 S. Christine St. Police said the semi-truck careened off and hit an auto owned by Ronald T. Norenberg, 413 Marcella St., which in turn rammed into an auto owned by Marvin E. Spivey, 2822 W. Northland Ave.

Police said the vehicles were unoccupied at the time.

Relations Board After a two-year term as minority expert on the U. S. Senate Finance Committee, he returned to Lancaster, Wis., where he owned and operated the Grant County Independent newspaper.

He was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in 1956, was the Democratic candidate for Congress from Wisconsin's 3rd District in 1956, 1958, and 1960, and executive director of the Wisconsin Democratic Party in 1959-60. His association with the late John F. Kennedy led to his appointment as administrator of the Rural Electrification program in 1961, a post he held until January, 1969. For the two years preceding his appointment as Secretary of Transportation, he was a consultant in the fields of management and public relations in Washington, D. C.

Miss Otto joined the Girl Scouts in 1937 as executive

Spice Defends Jail Plan

Sheriff Calvin Spice has defended the security systems proposed for the new Outagamie County jail but said they should not be considered as replacements for personnel.

Spice also told the county board's special building committee that three additional people probably will be needed to operate the jail building.

The proposal calls for eight closed-circuit television cameras mounted at various points in the building, plus a sound monitoring system.

County Executive Alvin Woehler had challenged the need for some of the closed-circuit television equipment, saying he would rather have additional personnel on duty.

At the present time, the sheriff's department has two men on duty after 5 p.m. at the courthouse, the radio operator, and a jailer.

Woehler said he found it "difficult to believe" that one man would be able to operate the new radio console. He said he also would rather have another person on duty on the first floor, where there is now none, for a total of four people at night, instead of some of the surveillance equipment.

Spice agreed the extra people were needed. He said there should be two men on the radio now. "There is too much for one man to handle with the radio, telephones and teletype," he said. He noted that the Appleton police department has had two men on the radio console for a number of years.

"How long will it be before we need someone on the first floor at night?" Supv. Delmar Schmeichel, committee chairman asked.

"Immediately," Spice said. He added that frequently when strangers want to go to the sheriff's department at night they don't know where to go. He said the janitors frequently find people wandering around the courthouse at night trying to find the department.

Spice also pushed for the special 10-track tape recorder which will cost an estimated $10,000. The recorder is a dual unit with an automatic second 10-track backup if the first unit fails.

The recorder would run 24 hours a day and monitor all telephone calls and radio transmissions. Spice said it would replace the manual radio log that is now kept.

A similar, but less sophisticated, recorder was installed about six years ago but quit working about two years ago. Spice said the unit was one of the first of its kind and was not heavy enough for the 24-hour a day use. "The radio operators miss the recorder," he said. "I feel it is very essential."

Ed Slezewski, electrical engineer with Sauter, Seaborn, Paynter and Duszak Architects, estimated a maintenance contract for the recorder would cost about $300 a year.

The closed-circuit television system would cost about $750 per camera, plus cost of the console monitors. He estimated a maintenance contract for the television system, intercom, sound system fire alarm system and the electronics for the door locks would be about $600 a year.

All of the security systems Appleton Elks Lodge No. 337 and the Knights of Columbus. He was a member of St. Joseph Church.

Survivors are his widow, two daughters, seven grandchildren and a brother.

Visitation will be after 3 p.m. Friday at the Brettschneider-Trettin Funeral Home and Saturday until funeral services at 10 a.m. at St. Joseph Catholic Church. The rosary will be prayed at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the funeral home. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery.

New State Remap Bill Introduced

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Senate Wednesday received a second congressional reapportionment bill — one said to be more favorable to Rep. Vernon Thomson, R-Wis.

An earlier bill, drafted by Rep. William Steiger, R-Wis., was objected to by Thomson, who said it would alter the boundaries of his 3rd district in the western part of the state in such a way as to diminish its Republican character.

Wednesday's bill, offered by state Sen. Milo Knutson, R-La Crosse, would leave the Democratic Eau Claire County area out of the 3rd district. It would remove Juneau County from the 3rd and add it to the 2nd district of Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., while adding St. Croix, Polk and Dunn Counties to Thomson's area.

Both bills would change the number of districts in Wisconsin from ten to nine.

Neenah Spurs Development Of Sewer-User Fee Plan

NEENAH — Work on the plant after it's been expanded weeks, the city hopes to have firm cost estimates from two firms on the work required to devise a sewer user fee.

Right now, two firms are competing for the job. They are Haven, Garlock, Schatz and Otto, a Neenah accounting firm. wanted to accomplish with the city and Consoer and Townsend, a Chicago engineering firm which has the contract to draw up plans and specifications for the addition to the sewage plant.

Representatives of both firms and four members of the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission met Wednesday with the public works committee to discuss exactly what the city wanted in a user fee.

The question of what the city wants appeared to have been the major obstacle. Nobody seemed to know just what the city wanted the user fee to accomplish.

Major Questions

Wayne Bryan, public works director, summed up the situation by pointing to two major questions.

It depends on what you want. Do you want the fee, which is scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1, 1972, to reflect the current operational cost? Or do you want the fee to reflect the projected cost to operate the senting Consoer and Townsend admitting that the company's original proposal would reflect the projected costs, said C&T would submit a proposal "On whatever the city wants us to do."

Menasha has already signed the contract with C&T but one of the contingencies of the proposal was that it be for both cities.

The original intent of both cities in passing ordinances calling for a sewer user fee was to try to put the plant on a self-supporting basis by Jan. 1, 1972, plus the longer range goal of keeping a fee updated which would reflect the operational and capitalization costs each year.

Laubenheimer pointed out that the first proposal to conduct a user fee study included a fee framework which could be applied to the new plant, or if it wanted to go with a fee based only on present operation costs.

Accounting Procedure

Donald Garlock, representing the accounting firm, told the committee that a user fee now would be "a straight forward accounting procedure." However, he added that if the fee was to reflect the projected costs, engineering would also be needed to make a decision on which one to use.

Peter Laubenheimer, representing Consoer and Townsend, said the company's original proposal would reflect the projected costs, said C&T would submit a proposal "On whatever the city wants us to do."

Parochial Aid Discussed Schools 'Place of Worship?'

NEENAH — Every citizen basic American freedom? should be guaranteed two options: one, to attend or not attend a private school, and one, to support or not support the national director of Rights, he said.

Additionally, the U.S. Supreme Court on four times has spelled out the meaning of this first amendment, and said that no tax could be levied for support of a religious society.

Cogdell further went to the Wisconsin Bill of Rights Article 1, that, he said, states that no man shall be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship.

"Is not a parish school a place of worship?" he asked, adding another question: "So how can people be compelled through taxation to support such schools?"

Cogdell said that there are many different religious organizations, yet only two or three churches will receive aid.

A church, Cogdell said, has to be pretty "big and wealthy" to handle the operation of a high school. Most churches couldn't afford this and the children in these congregations are going to public schools, and receiving their religious worship on Sundays, after school, or other times.

Cogdell said some people say they are double taxed since they support the private school and still pay taxes which support a public school.

"What you give or pay to a private school is not a tax, but a contribution. You are only taxed once," he said.

"If you elect not to use the public school, it is your right, but you can't complain you are being put upon," Cogdell stated. He pointed out that if a person doesn't want to use the public library, but wants a private one, he can build one. If he doesn't like the protection of the police, he's free to hire a detective, "but you can't complain you're being double charged."

Treffert Attacks Tightened State Hospital Budget

WINNEBAGO — "While it may be that austerity is essential for the state to maintain its fiscal solvency, this is not an austerity, hold-the-line budget, but rather represents a drastic cut-back in established programs for the mentally ill here.

"If, indeed, cut-backs are necessary beyond hold-the-line efforts, these cut-backs should not be made at the expense of the treatment of the young, the ill and the helpless unless and until every other program that addresses itself to those of us fortunate enough to be well and self-sufficient has been trimmed of its excess and option."

That was the close of Dr. Darold Treffert's argument before the State Board of Health and Social Services Wednesday.

The administrator of Winnebago State is struggling to keep budget cuts now up for political bartering from slicing too deeply into treatment programs.

Position Cuts

Winnebago requested 20 new positions for the 1971-73 biennium. It got back a proposal cut 158 positions in the state's mentally-ill care, but that cooperative bargaining with the joint finance committee reduced cuts to 98.

Counter Budget

The matter rests there for now. Final budgets will be cobbled out in joint senate-assembly committee, after the Republicans submit a counter budget to the governor's.

Ganser said the population in abuse program will not be the same, justifiable blues to state institutions was down, but established. Admissions of children, especially those under 12, will have to be severely restricted. Special teaching for schizophrenic children will have to be abandoned to free teachers for the growing school population. No summer employees can be hired. Some existing full-time aide positions will have to be changed to part-time ones.

The recent okay to establish a residency training program for psychiatrists, a thing long desired by the hospital, will be endangered.

Topics Funds Viewed For Neenah Projects

NEENAH — Engineering will start almost immediately to prepare applications for federal aid in improving the city's traffic patterns with emphasis on widening Oak Street and completing the northwest end of the proposed downtown traffic those two areas," Bryan explained.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, asked for and got between Washington and Wisconsin, Bryan said, "East and west traffic converges at Oak Street from Washington Street, and it leads to Wisconsin which is a major carrier and it also goes into a major carrier bridge."

Bryan said today that red tape and restrictions on qualified projects has created an outgrowth from the N. Commercial - Canal intersection, the Church - Wisconsin intersection, federal program.

However, the applications and federal approval for a pair must be in by July 1. Bryan of projects including a $6,000 revamping of the First - Lincoln intersection for motorists on the Oak and Canal-Church headed for Theda Clark Hospital Street projects and for the Smith-Columbian tie.

According to the plan, which is as an overall plan to improve at this time is tentative, Oak Street between Washington and Wisconsin would be scheduled been filed for a $20,000 re-signing of the one-way system foot width to a four-lane 48-foot and Commercial and Wisconsin to replace the temporary signs.

The plan also calls for widening installed three years ago when ing Canal to 48-feet to get the one-way went into effect

Library Board Agrees to Back Oneida Request

Support Should Help Bring Federal Funds, Officials Believe

The Appleton Public Library Board agreed Tuesday to join Brown County Library in a request for $3,000 in federal funds for the library in Oneida. The resolution, passed unanimously by the library trustees Tuesday, should make it easier for Oneida to maintain its federal funding, according to Gordon Bebeau, Appleton librarian.

He told the board that the Oneida library, which serves both Outagamie and Brown County residents, might be affected by tight federal money, and that a request in its behalf would not preclude federal funds for Appleton.

Bebeau, who also is on an Outagamie ad hoc committee investigating possibilities for a county library system, told the board that it would soon have to decide whether it favored such a system.

Outlining progress of the county committee, he said that the costs to county communities have been determined along with capital improvements. They are likely to include a new library in the Kaukauna-Little Chute area, a bookmobile, and establishment of an Appleton headquarters.

The Post-Crescent B 3
Thursday, May 27, 1971

He told the board, "I'm sure it's going to be difficult to get approval, since many communities are convinced they are doing as well as need be." However, he said he suspected such a reaction comes because many rural communities "don't realize how they could benefit."

Trustees were told by attorney John Kellogg that it may be illegal for Outagamie to have a county system, because the county population is under 150,000, a number he said was set by Wisconsin statutes.

The board agreed to devote its next meeting to discussing such a system.

It also endorsed three students selected by the scholarship committee as recipients of the library's Frank P. Young scholarships.

The award which amounts to about $550 annually is given to promising library science graduate students at midwestern universities. It will be given again in January.

Of Burglaries

Irvin Zehren, 40 and his son Larry, 21, both of 500 Harties St., Combined Locks are being held in the Outagamie County jail today on a combined total of seven charges of aiding and abetting burglaries.

The younger Zehren was taken into custody at the Combined Locks house Wednesday. The older Zehren voluntarily turned himself into authorities this morning about 8:30 a.m. after learning there were warrants for his arrest.

Police issued warrants for the pair late last week after Harry Mueller, 28, Madison gave information to authorities in affidavits attached to the complaint he signed. Mueller was sentenced to 10 years in prison Friday on nine felony charges most of them burglaries.

Both Zehrens are charged with aiding and abetting the Nov. 22 burglary of James Madison Junior High School. Additionally, the younger Zehren is named for aiding and abetting break-ins at two Appleton Quaker Dairy stores on Nov. 21 and Dec. 5.

The older Zehren is charged with aiding and abetting break-ins at the Kimberly High School Nov. 17 and two Appleton taverns Nov. 1.

An affidavit on the complaint charges that the Zehrens discussed with Mueller and an accomplice the layouts of places cited in the complaints that Mueller and the accomplice were to burglarize.

The older Zehren and his wife Florence, also 40, are scheduled to stand trial July 12 for a combined total of 10 felony charges lodged earlier. Zehren and his son were scheduled to appear in court on the new counts this afternoon. After initial court appearances, bonds of $3,000 were set for each.

Former Chilton Man Pledges $1.5 Million to UW

MADISON — A pledge of $1.5 million, the largest single donation ever given to the University of Wisconsin, has been made by a former Chilton man toward construction of an academic building on the Madison campus.

Lewis G. Weeks, Westport, Conn., one of the world's best known petroleum geologists and a 1917 UW graduate has offered the money for the new geology-geophysics building.

In recommending acceptance of the pledge, John C. Weaver, university president, expressed "the warm appreciation of a great university for his outstanding contribution to sustaining excellence at this university."

Weeks' oil discoveries have had a major effect on the economic development of several nations, including Australia, Bolivia, Chile, Columbia, India and Venezuela.

He is a former president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and recipient of the organization's highest award, the Powers Medal. Weeks also has been an adviser for the U.S. government on mineral affairs and served as chief geologist for Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

In 1970 Weeks was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree at the university's commencement exercises at Madison.

Regents also authorized a request for $1,850,000 in matching funds from the 1969-71 biennial capital building program, authorized by the legislature to start work on the building project.

The national science foundation also had allocated $500,000 for the new building. The gift from Weeks is contingent upon receipt of these additional funds.

The proposed facility will provide offices, teaching and research laboratories and ancillary areas for the two departments.

Construction is expected to begin in July 1972 and is expected to be completed 18 months later.

Weeks is a specialist and pioneer in the study of sedimentary basin development, oil occurrence and world oil reserve.

His long career began with graduation from the University of Wisconsin in 1917.

He worked briefly in Mexico, and later in Arizona.

During World War I he was a Navy aviator, flying open-cockpit biplanes. After the war he spent two years at Cornell University, doing graduate work and teaching. His next four years were spent in India, working for the Whitehall Petroleum Co., conducting geological surveys. He joined the Standard Oil firm in 1924 and for the next ten years worked and traveled extensively in South America. In 1933 he became chief geologist for the company and in 1938 became its chief research geologist, a position he held until 1958.

As president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, he maintains a heavy schedule of global speaking and visiting tours.

State Emergency Declared To Help Cut Traffic Toll

MADISON — A state of emergency has been declared on Wisconsin highways.

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey issued the declaration Tuesday, effective at 5 p.m. yesterday. It enables authorities to initiate action to help lower the traffic death toll.

This will include use of the National Guard to assist the State Patrol on heavily traveled roads.

The patrol will have an average of 226 men on duty daily during the holiday period. This is about 25 to 30 more troopers than usual.

About 65 guardsmen will be stationed along the Interstate highway system to aid motorists.

Two helicopters, carrying trained medics to administer first aid, will be in the air at all times during the holiday weekend and two others will be ready for emergencies on a stand-by basis.

Vascar, radar, unmarked cars and aerial patrols will be utilized by the State Patrol and local law enforcement agencies to insure traffic control.

470 May Die

The National Safety Council has estimated that from 470 to 550 persons will die on the nation's highways during the three day Memorial Day weekend.

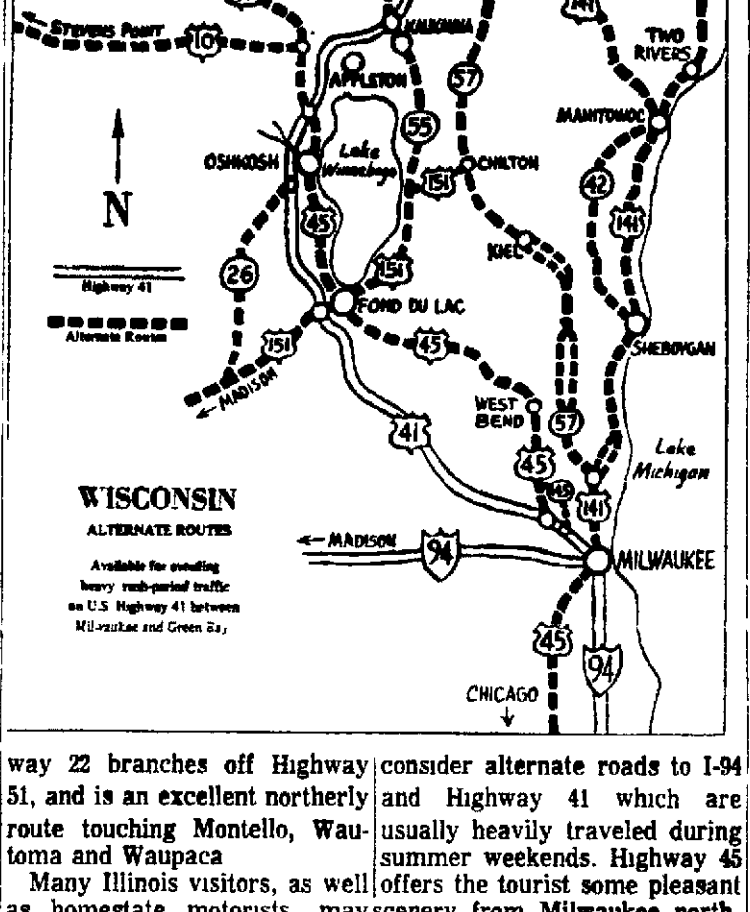

An additional 22,000 to 26,000 may be injured, it is estimated.

As a further effort to help cut traffic accidents, the division of highways reports, all construction projects that might interfere with traffic will be halted between noon Friday, and 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Truck traffic will also be reduced during the period.

The division of motor vehicles has also suggested that motorists make use of routes paralleling and supplementing the Interstate system, if heavy traffic develops.

The division said the I-system carries very heavy traffic at peak times and occasionally, in emergency situations, the Wisconsin State Patrol must detour traffic to alternate parallel to Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and New London.

Highway 57 is a direct driving prospect for people heading north to Green Bay or continuing up into Door county. Another possibility for motorists with destinations in this general area is Highway 141, from Milwaukee to Sheboygan, and then branching off to Green Bay from Manitowoc, or picking up Highway 42 at Manitowoc and continuing north into Door county.

These alternatives to the Interstate system and Highway 41 all offer access to scenery and historic sites.

Legal Fee Schedule Probably Will Stay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Arguing with a lawyer about the fee he charges his client is one thing, but arguing with an entire committee of lawyers that their method of setting fees should be changed by state law is another matter. Sens. Wayne Whitlow, D-Milwaukee, and Joseph Lourigan, D-Kenosha, attempted that feat Tuesday.

The two senators appeared before the senate judiciary committee, all of whose members are lawyers, to argue in behalf of a bill that would prohibit the State Bar of Wisconsin from setting a minimum fee schedule for attorneys. The response they got was not warm.

Whitlow told the group that competition would be good for the legal profession and recommended that a lawyer and his client be permitted to negotiate a fee relevant to factors in a particular situation. Other professionals, Whitlow said, suggesting his own occupation as a management consultant, negotiate and so should attorneys.

Underbidding Discouraged
Recognizing that the bar fee schedule is only suggested, Whitlow also pointed out that the bar discourages attorneys from underbidding one another to set up competition.

Lourigan told committeemen that their public image is poor, and elimination of the fee schedule would help. "Price fixing is not good for you people," he said, and suggested they "have a little round with your conscience and change your image."

Speaking from his knowledge as a member of several trade unions, Lourigan told the committee that other unions negotiate with their own companies for wages and benefits appropriate to the local situation and the ability of the employer to pay. A similar plan would suit the lawyer-client relationship as well, he said.

"Every one of you is competent enough to appraise your own value," he said. "If you can't evaluate your own value, you shouldn't be an attorney."

The state bar, however, took an opposite view of the bill.

'Not Fixed'
Phil Habermann of Madison, representing the bar association, said the fee schedule is "not a fixed absolute minimum." He said the problem is one of semantics rather than fact, and that it could be solved by changing the term "minimum fee schedule" to "fee guide."

The bar representative cited a list of eight factors to be taken into account by attorneys in setting fees, guides set down recently by the Wisconsin Supreme Court. The guides involve determination of the amount of work, the uniqueness of a case, the extent to which it would limit doing other case work and similar factors for setting fees. No mention of the client's ability to pay or need for the service is suggested in the guide, it was pointed out by a supporter of the bill.

The bill's chances of success before the all-lawyer committee was alluded to by Whitlow. "I trust your committee will give it fair consideration before you kill it," he joked.

A bill designed to regulate attorney fees for probate work was defeated recently in the assembly judiciary committee.

Hortonville Lions To Hear Army Captain

HORTONVILLE — Army Capt. Dean Parker, who is home on leave, will speak for the Lions Club when it meets tonight at the Black Otter Hotel.

The group's only meeting in June will be a picnic at Larry's Country Club on the 24th, at which officers will be installed.

The club is sponsoring a calendar drive again, offering calendars for listing birthdays and anniversaries and other activities. Proceeds are used to help support the Lions' camp for the visually handicapped at Rosholt.

Kimberly Plans Summer Pre-Kindergarten Program

KIMBERLY — A summer program for incoming kindergarten pupils, funded through the federal government, is being set up in the school district, according to Supt. Ray Hamann.

The program will consist of one week of kindergarten classes from 1 to 3 p.m. daily at Westside Elementary School. Youngsters will receive various tests enabling teachers to start sooner in fall with the skills each child needs to learn.

Another purpose of the program is to attempt to discover any learning difficulties or disadvantages a child may have. Eyes and ears will be tested and teachers will observe youngsters' coordination and administer a test of basic experiences.

Children found with eye or ear problems which could affect learning ability will be referred to parents for corrective action.

Plans call for 20 to 25 pre-kindergarten children to be scheduled each week with two teachers handling each group. Parents are being asked to notify the school of weeks when their child could not attend due to vacation schedules or other reasons.

School officials will attempt to form neighborhood groups for attendance, to permit children to begin with youngsters they know and for convenience of transportation. The first few days of each week will be spent in helping the child adjust to the new experience and get acquainted with teachers.

Condominiums Boom; Here Are Your Rights

BY SYLVIA PORTER

As we move into the peak period for home building, it seems increasingly likely that we will build around 2,000,000 new houses this year — finally a new all-time high, topping the previous peak year of 1950, when millions of World War II veterans and their young families set up housekeeping in their own homes.

For hundreds of thousands of home and apartment seekers, this new home will be a condominium.

Even during the tailspin in housing during the past few years, the market for condominiums surged relentlessly ahead — and for several very valid reasons.

Obviously, today's condominium boom is intimately tied to the overall apartment boom: the estimate is that more than 40 per cent of all 1971 housing starts will be apartments. We also are experiencing a boom in taxes town houses as well as four and six-unit apartment-town houses. (and many of these are condominiums too.)

What's involved when you buy a condominium? How does a condominium differ from a cooperative? What are its key advantages?

Share Facilities
In general, buying a condominium is very much like buying an ordinary house. You, the purchaser, get legal title and are responsible for paying property taxes. When you buy a condominium (and it may be a financially, you are not held a vacation cottage), you make failure. This is the problem of the usual down payment, assume the usual mortgage and paper work costs. Along with the structure itself, you buy (and pay for) a share of the condominium community facilities too — which could include equipment and "extras" ranging from elevators, laundry rooms and garages to gardens, golf course, swimming pools and marinas.

In addition to your mortgage, you are normally liable to pay a monthly maintenance charge for the entire condominium complex. And both the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration back mortgages on condominiums just as they do on regular houses.

Now to five key differences between a cooperative and a condominium — the vital part of this column to most of you.

(1) A first difference, as one wag put it recently, is that a cooperative is a batch of people who own one structure. A condominium is a batch of traditional houses. And a vital people who own a batch of structures. Usually, cooperatives are strictly apartments; the persons running the condominiums may be either separate town houses (usually low houses), apartments or vacation cottages.

Can Rent, Resell
(2) Unlike a co-op, if the profit whole condominium project fails

(3) Since you are the actual owner of your condominium, you have the right to rent, resell or give it to anyone you choose — although other owners often reserve a right of first refusal. By contrast, with cooperative apartments such transactions almost always require the consent of others in the deal.

(4) With a condominium, you may deduct on income taxes not only the mortgage interest you are paying but also your property taxes.

(5) If you own a condominium in a vacation resort, you can rent it to others — and if its primary purpose is to produce income, get the added tax advantages of being able to deduct your expenses for repairs, maintenance, depreciation, etc.

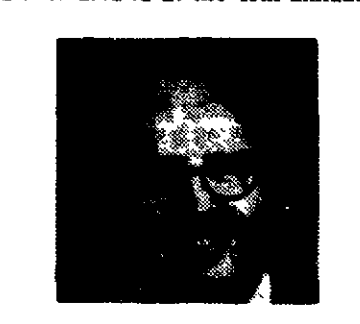

Obey the same basic rules in shopping for and judging a condominium as you would for a traditional house. And a vital competence and reputation of the persons running the condominium may be either separate town houses (usually low houses), apartments or vacation cottages.

The quality of your management could determine whether or not your investment gives you long-term pleasure and profit.

More Graduates Go to In-State Universities

MADISON — Commencement exercises will mark the beginning and not the end of an educational career for a majority of this spring's Wisconsin high school graduates.

The State Coordinating Council for Higher Education (CCHHE) reports that about four of 10 of the state's current high school graduating class will go on to colleges in Wisconsin next fall. An additional three out of 10 eventually will continue their post-high school education at in-state collegiate, vocational-technical and proprietary schools or will attend out-of-state institutions.

Last fall, more than 29,000 spring graduates of Wisconsin high schools entered public and private colleges in state, a doubling of the number of new resident freshmen who enrolled in 1960.

Current CCHHE research findings indicate that the percentage of state high school graduates going on to in-state colleges increased at a rate of about one per cent per year from 1960 to 1970.

Declining enrollments in Wisconsin's private colleges and high schools also will continue to push enrollments at public schools upward, according to CCHHE. The proportion of state

Billing Shifted By Committee

The job of billing and recovering fees from persons for whom Outagamie County has provided attorney services will soon rest with the corporation counsel's office.

Although reimbursement from indigent defendants in criminal cases has been sought through the district attorney's office, the county board's judiciary and enforcement committee Tuesday cited a 1967 board action making the collecting the duty day's entering students are becoming increasingly more dependent on student financial aids to continue their education, committee said that Dist. Atty. James Long's office has been led a greater share of students to enroll in collegiate institutions in their home counties for commuting purposes than previously.

Instructional fees for resident students at the Madison and Milwaukee campuses rose 43 per cent from 1967 to 1970 while fees at the University's two-year centers increased 81 per cent. Fees charged resident students at the Wisconsin State Universities were 34.5 per cent higher last fall than in 1967.

While in-state freshmen enrollments were on the rise nonresident new freshmen enrollments in the state's public colleges declined 38 per cent between 1967 and 1970 due to tuition and fee increases. The nonresident proportion of the total undergraduate enrollment last fall was 10.4 per cent in the University system and 10.7 per cent in the State University system.

The CCHHE investigation was conducted by Phyllis Hawthorne and L. Joseph Lins.

"Just because nobody believes anything you say, Otis, is no reason to think you can grow up to be president!"

City Hall Goes To Early Closing Starting Tuesday

Summer office hours, including a shorter lunch period and an earlier afternoon closing time, go into effect at Appleton City Hall next week.

Personnel Director Gerald Lang said city offices will open at 8 a.m. and close at noon as at present. But they will reopen at 12:30 and close at 4:30 p.m. rather than being open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. as during winter months.

months

The object is to permit city employees and officials to leave earlier during summer months. The City Council voted earlier this year to give the new schedule a trial this summer.

Some officials predicted it will make it difficult for some citizens to get to City Hall before it closes in the afternoon. Others said the change will affect few if any people.

The new schedule is to continue until Sept. 6. It starts next Tuesday, since the Memorial Day Holiday is observed on Monday and City Hall will be closed.

Safety Council Sees 470-550 Road Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council has estimated that between 470 and 550 persons might be killed in traffic accidents during the three-day Memorial Day weekend.

The period covered by the estimate Tuesday is from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Monday.

Valley Counties Don't Get Back All Aid Funds

The four Fox Valley area counties — Outagamie, Calumet, Waupaca and Winnebago — paid out more for federal aid in the last fiscal year than they received through grants.

A state-by-state analysis of the grants-in-aid programs has been made by the Tax Foundation, a nonprofit organization concerned with public taxation and spending.

It shows that communities in 30 states profited by the exchange, getting back more than they put in. For the others, the price paid was greater than the amount of aid received.

Some $23.5 billion was distributed to communities throughout the country in the past fiscal year. The Fox Valley region received $26,270,000, but paid approximately $33,625,000.

The amount that came back to the state and its localities totaled $369,000,000.

In effect, $1 was received in the form of government aid for every $1.28 in cost. This is exclusive of matching funds that must be provided in most cases by the state and local governments.

There was no attempt to match the grants on a dollar-for-dollar basis, it is pointed out. The aid, which was earmarked for such projects as urban improvement, job training, health and hospitals, school lunches, streets and highways, school construction and education, went principally to areas that needed it most.

The aid program has been growing larger year by year. In 1960, about $7 billion came from Washington for such purposes, as compared with the $23.5 billion in 1970.

Teacher Aides Find Experience Fulfilling

A Time of Quiet Reading and Listening is what being a teachers aide is all about. This is one of the many fulfilling experiences for Mrs. Richard Parsons as she sounds out Sherry Shommer and Donald Winkler.

BY HAZEL THIEL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

STOCKBRIDGE — They do it because they want to help. They get a good feeling inside because they are women fighting for a cause — keeping parochial education alive. Every week, 14 dedicated women go to school at St. Mary Catholic School here to teach and to learn.

They are teacher-aides, the largest group of volunteers in the area, according to Sister Mary Clare, principal at the school, who organized the group about three years ago.

Most of the women interviewed said they became involved when Sister Mary Clare appealed for help in the lower grades where there are large enrollments.

"If I could help some little kid to read better, that was what I wanted to do," Mrs. Justin Christie remarked. A busy farm wife, she admitted that her teacher-aide work has helped her to understand her own children, particularly a cerebral palsied child. She explained that in her work at St. Mary the tutoring of the slower learning pupils is meant to be fun and an enjoyable experience for the youngsters.

Certified at College

Along with Mrs. Matt Moehn, Mrs. George Ecker, Mrs. Earl Hemauer, and Mrs. Justin Schumacher, she was certified by St. Norbert College last summer. The women attended a three week workshop. They had to come up with original learning and teaching ideas, which they shared with their co-workers after completing the course.

A Help at Home, Too

Mrs. Ecker assists in the second grade with mathematics skills and reading. She does it because "I have children, and it is rewarding to see the progress." The young mother believes in parochial education and wanted to do what she could to see it continued. She has no difficulty in finding a babysitter for the two hours a week she spends at the school and admits that the training she has received and the experience she has gained during the three years helps her to assist her own children with homework.

Generally, the women give individual help to students in reading and mathematics. They supervise children and assist with typing, library work, selling lunch tickets, correcting papers and workbooks. They set up and operate audio-visual machines as well as handling routine telephone calls at the school which has an enrollment of 280 pupils in eight grades. It is one of few Catholic schools in the area which still maintains an eight grade program.

Sense of Achievement

All of the women said they enjoyed their work. It gave them a sense of achievement "even if there are things I should be doing at home", one admitted. All work about two hours a week.

The aides are all women with lots of homework. Most of them have large families and large homes to care for, as well as farmwork to do.

Mrs. Aelred Schumacher is the mother of 12 children, a den mother and currently a study hall supervisor at the local high school. She wanted to help youngsters to learn to read well, pointing out that her individual help might be of value to some.

Without the teacher aides, Sr. Mary Clare admits, many children would not get individual attention. She doesn't know how the school would function without her volunteers.

The dark-haired sister, who has shed her habit in favor of conventional clothes, is a member of the teacher aide advisory committee for the Fox Valley VTEA 12. (along with Mrs. Paul Ecker), who is always willing to climb into her car at a moment's notice, drive into the village to substitute or to take care of extra secretarial work.

Until the teacher-aides became involved at St. Mary's they never really knew the amount of work there is to do, how tolerant and patient one can learn to become or how many of their math facts they had forgotten.

"When they talked of closing the school, I knew I wanted to do something to keep it going," Mrs. Arthur Hemauer said, as she explained her weekly assignments at the school. Mrs. Robert Wilson expressed the same opinion.

No Behavior Problems

They don't regard it as work. The women feel that many do not understand their motivation or concern. Mrs. Richard Parsons and her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Parsons, chatted about their experiences while repairing books. A child reading to Mrs. Sylvester Zahringer seemed completely at ease. The women say they experience no behavior problems, and the children look forward to the individual learning sessions. Mrs. Ben Burg finds herself eager to do her bit, too.

"You can just see the improvement. You go home knowing that you have helped," one mother said. She spoke for them all. They are all women with a cause, to do something constructive, instead of complaining.

When school closes Friday, they say they will miss the weekly trips and contact with the children, which they look forward to, but there'll be other tasks — that of "putting school away for another year." There will be more in-service sessions and plans for next year.

Prunus Persicas on Plentiful Foods List

When was the last time you had a dish of Prunus Persica L. for breakfast?

Or maybe Prunus Persica cobbler or even the all-time favorite — Prunus Persica over ice cream for lunch or supper?

You may be doubting that you have even seen a Prunus Persica, let alone eaten one, but it would be a rare person who has not tasted the peach — or Prunus Persica if one is formal!

Year-around Fruit

Canned cling peaches, a U. S. Department of Agriculture plentiful food for May, are conveniently available the year around. The firm, sweet and brightly colored cling peach adds zest to salads and desserts. They make attractive garnishes, too.

Cling peaches, grown exclusively for canning, have an unusually close-textured flesh, a tight protective skin and a pit that clings with great strength to its brilliantly golden flesh.

California supplies 99 per cent of all the cling peaches grown and canned in the United States.

Inventories of canned cling peaches at the beginning of the year totaled nearly 17 million cases. That means all of us can enjoy plenty of tasty and economical canned cling peaches.

Anyone for Prunus Persica shortcake tonight?

Poor Juice Standards Points Up Confusion For Bewildered Buyer

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — One of the most confusing—and most lucrative—places in the average supermarket is the shelf containing beverages.

Few shoppers apparently are aware of the substantial differences in products bearing such terms as "juice," "juice drink," "breakfast drink," "fruit drink," "juice ade," "juice cocktail" and "juice nectar."

Few people are aware of how little fruit juice is contained in all of these products except "juice." Federal regulations require that anything labeled simply as "juice" must consist entirely of the natural juice of the fruit in question.

But there are no Federal standards specifying the proportion of natural juice in the other products that are often labeled, advertised and promoted to look like the real thing.

Jungle of Terms

The result is a jungle of terms for blends containing as little as 6 per cent juice in orange "drink" and as much as 50 per cent juice in what is called orange "juice-drink." Percentages vary considerably from these, however, from brand to brand.

Even Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, is confused. In a recent speech to the National Juice Products Association, she confessed her naivete in thinking that the orange "juice-drink" delivered by her milk man was all juice when it was only half juice.

"I am amazed," she said, "and I am sure most homemakers would be similarly surprised to know" what she learned.

Standards Needed

She proceeded to scold the manufacturers for not agreeing on some sort of standards for the various terms and labeling the proportion of juice in them.

She pointed out that the Food and Drug Administration has been trying for nearly seven years to set standards.

Lack of agreement among major producers and natural differences between Florida and California oranges have blocked acceptance of any standards.

The proposed standards would require at least 50 per cent juice in anything labeled "juice-drink," at least 25 per cent juice in anything called "ade" and at least 10 per cent juice in products called fruit "drinks."

Sugar, Water High

As it is, fruit drink products are required to list their ingredients in descending order of importance, but few buyers stop to read the list. If they did, they would find that water and sugar usually top the list.

But the list does not show proportions. Few producers are ready to start revealing percentages, for they would show that the amount of added water in fruit drinks may exceed 90 per cent.

The "natural" flavoring mentioned on some labels is not full natural juice but concentrations of juice or parts of the fruit, such as the highly flavored rind of oranges.

Buy Only 'Juice'

Vitamin C is added to many orange concoctions to make them more like real juice, but the amounts added are sometimes far less than labels imply. The Federal Trade Commission has issued several complaints against such products in recent months.

If all this leaves you confused over how to get your money's worth in fruit beverages, you can be sure of at least one term: the word "juice."

Products such as apple juice, orange juice, pineapple juice and pear juice not only are natural juices but they are invariably more nutritious than any imitations.

True White Pine

True white pine trees, which provide fine building materials, are identifiable by their needles, clustered five to a bundle.

From Miss Hawaii to a Fit Jogger

BY SALLY-JO MOAN

Eugene Register-Guard Writer
EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — It's a long way from Hawaii to Oregon when you go via Atlantic City and the trip takes five years.

But that's the route made by Roberta Conlan Moore, Miss Hawaii of 1965, now wife of marathon runner Ken Moore and runner in her own right.

Since last fall Bobbie (her preferred name) and Ken have been living in Lowell on the shores of Dexter Lake. Ken, former University of Oregon and North Eugene High School track star, is enrolled at UO, working on a master of fine arts degree in creative writing. Bobbie is job-hunting, an occupation she finds depressing.

The frustration drove her to enter the Seaside Trails End Marathon, held recently. "There was nothing else to do, so I entered, just to see if I could run it," she says.

She finished the 26-mile, 385-yard race in five hours two minutes and forty seconds, Ken running with her for moral support.

Bobbie hadn't jogged at all until Ken gave her a pair of track shoes the first Christmas after they were married.

A bride is not one to pass up such a hint, and this one started jogging then. She first ran competitively in the summer of 1969, in San Francisco's 7 1/2-mile Bay to Breakers race. Ken entered, too, and won.

"I came in 1,198 or something," Bobbie recalls. "Last year we entered again, and Kenny won again. I came in 1,125." She claims her real reason for entering the Bay to Breakers race is to partake of a traditional feast that follows.

Bobbie may not be Olympic material like her husband, but jogging seems to be in her blood. "If I haven't jogged I even feel guilty about eating," she says.

She recalls her experiences as Miss Hawaii as "sometimes fun," but she sums up the Miss America Pageant in one word: "phoney."

"It was strange," she remembers. "In fact, it was weird. We were put up there on display and the things the judges were looking for a person could turn on and off."

Bobbie won't say she regrets the experience—there were advantages, such as scholarship money and travel. When she won the Miss Hawaii title, she had just graduated from high school. During her year's reign she was paid for most public appearances and also worked full time as a feature writer for the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. She saved enough of her earnings to finance nearly her entire first year at Stanford, where she enrolled the fall of 1966.

Though now living in Oregon, the Moores are far from settled. Bobbie talks of seeing the South Pacific—Australia, New Zealand. And she talks of living in Hawaii someday.

The daughter of a hawle

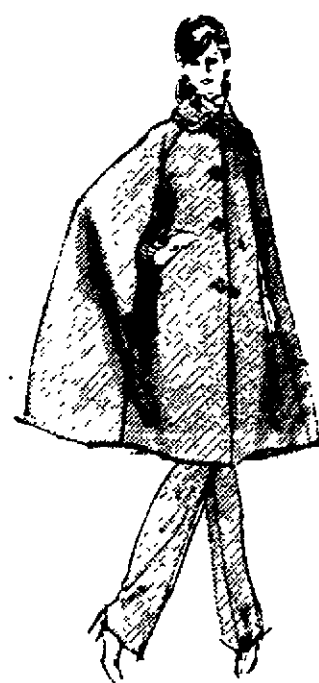

(white father) and his Filipino-Japanese-Spanish wife, she is a typical multi-racial product of the island. The place has claim to her heart too. Even in Oregon, she says she sometimes longs for the Polynesian Pacific.

Auxiliary Delegates Selected to Attend 4-Day Convention

At a recent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Military Order of Cooties, Foxes Pup Tent 29, delegates were selected to go to the state convention being held June 23 through June 26 in Kenosha. The meeting was called to order by president, Mrs. Henry Van Handel. Members will also visit the Modern Convalescent Home where they will entertain patients.

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

'Wanda'—A Movie Every Teen-Ager And College Student Should See

From time to time I am highly critical of some of the movies that are promoted to our youth because they distort reality and pretend a false idealism "Bonnie and Clyde" was such a movie. But very occasionally, a movie is produced that I like to call to your attention because it has special significance and value to young people. "Wanda" — a feature film, written, produced and acted in by Barbara Loden, is such a movie. Every boy and girl above the age of puberty ought to see it and their parents as well.

I am not going to tell you the plot and I shall try to skip the superlatives. Almost any would apply. This film is a flawless morality play; it is moving and gripping at the same time. There's not a false note in it. I don't know how they are going to rate this movie as to which ages may attend with or without parental permission, and you shouldn't care. The movie rating system is meaningless. "Wanda" succeeds and accomplishes all things that "Bonnie and Clyde" misrepresented. This film has high drama and suspense.

It is the kind of film fare that artfully shows young people to what kind of disaster non-commitment, non-involvement, cool and dropping out can lead, without any moralizing, preaching or the slick lies of virtually all other youth films. I am willing to bet that if your son or daughter gets to see "Wanda" when it comes to town, he or she won't feel like running away, seeking the easy way out, getting hung up on drugs or booze, nor will they be seduced to day-dream about crimes-made-romantic served up candy-coated by the usual movie and TV fare. With rare delicacy and insight, Miss Loden shows what's happening inside real people who permit themselves to be entrapped by emotional autism.

Kids Need Models

Barbara Loden, former high fashion model, theatrical actress, now turned writer-director and movie actress, is what the Women's Liberation Movement would like to pretend every woman might be, if given the chance. Regrettably this is a human impossibility. There are few women — or men — who possess her multifaceted talents. She, rather than the electronic music scene freaks, should and could be the heroine of every boy or girl. Our kids need models — not the kind you see in fashion ads — but real people who are deeply committed to ideas and craft. Miss Loden is the mother of two young children and a wife. She suffers and copes with the usual difficulties of doing her work and meeting her family obligations. She doesn't just take off, leaving husband and children behind. They all go together, as one family. She, like her movie, is very real.

Michael Higgins is the only other professional actor in the movie. He plays his role superbly. The rest of the cast, ordinary men, women and children, recruited on location, are also most convincing performers who respond convincingly to Miss Loden's direction.

Another interesting fact about this movie is that all profits, after production expenses, go into a non-profit foundation set up to finance independent movie productions of young, old, middle-aged, male and female film makers who have something to say.

"Wanda" has won all sorts of film festival honors and prizes. But this can be the kiss of death for an independent production. It's likely to be relegated to "art movie houses." Instead, it deserves to play the first run picture palaces.

Go see the movie and send the kids also. You'll see what I mean.

Rev. Costello Speaks of Life At Villa Hope
KAUKAUNA — The Rev. Timon Costello, director of Villa Hope, Appleton, told Homemaker Club members that love, friendship and concern are major qualities needed in all parents. He addressed the women at the recent closing dinner of the unit.
Father Costello said that lack of these qualities were contributing factors which have led to the straits in which many residents of the home find themselves today. He told of the men on parole from prison, their experiences and desires, as they prepare for re-entry into society.
The priest noted that the home also serves as a registered foster home for alcoholics and former drug users released from Winnebago State Hospital, where they live when room is available. Introducing Father Costello was program chairman, Mrs. Gordon Berken.
Officers for the coming year were installed by club advisor, Mrs. Robert Rusch. They include president, Mrs. James Weyenberg; vice president and program chairman, Mrs. Mark Biese; secretary, Mrs. George Bodde and treasurer, Mrs. Donald Vaubel.
Out-going president, Mrs. James McFadden, read a poem written by Mrs. G.L. Vandehey which paid special tribute to several women who have long served the club and assisted newer members.
Mrs. Glenn Monroe was in charge of the season-ending banquet.

When the Outagamie County Medical Association gathered for luncheon recently at Butte des Morts Golf Club, Mrs. John Mielke, new president; Mrs. Frank Hauch, scholarship chairman, and Mrs. James Veum, at right, talked with Mrs. Arthur C. Taylor, second from right, for whom the auxiliary's nursing scholarship was named this year.

18 Hopefuls Seek State 'Alice' Crown
District winners have been selected throughout Wisconsin and preparations are now underway for the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture's "Alice in Dairyland" finals at Peshtigo-Marquette, June 17, 18 and 19.
Among the 18 finalists are Marsha A. Lindsay, Manawa; Terri L. Dobrowski, Wild Rose; and Kathleen M. Jones, Berlin.
"Alice" hopefuls face a busy three-day schedule of judging, rehearsals and banquets at the finals. Special events include tours to places of interest in both Peshtigo and Marinette, boat rides, a family talent night program Friday evening and Saturday afternoon parade in Peshtigo.
Coronation ceremonies from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. Saturday will be telecast live, and in color, over a statewide network including TV stations in Milwaukee, Green Bay, Wausau, Eau Claire and Madison. A former "Alice," Bobbie Thoreson (Mrs. Jan P. Kovacic) will take part in the televised pageant.
The new "Alice" will succeed Miss Susan Masterson, of Janesville, and serve through June, 1972, as an employee of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Auxiliary Names Scholarship for Mrs. Taylor
The annual nursing scholarship given by the Outagamie County Medical Auxiliary (OCMA), designated this year as the Edith Taylor Nursing Scholarship in honor of Mrs. Arthur Taylor, was awarded to Miss Nancy Somers of Kimberly. The award was made at a recent luncheon meeting held at Butte des Morts Golf Club.
Guests at the event included Nancy's mother, Mrs. Peter Somers, and Mrs. Taylor's daughter, Mrs. Kendall Galow.
Because of Mrs. Taylor's many contributions to this community since she and her husband came here in 1941, naming the award for her this year was very fitting, the auxiliary said.
She worked to establish Appleton's Recreation Department during the '40s and has been an active member of the American Association of University Women. She has taught child development in Appleton, Menasha, Kimberly and Kaukauna vocational schools.
Mrs. Taylor founded the Outagamie County Mental Health Association and helped it get the third county charter in Wisconsin. She has served as president and education chairman of the organization.
Instrumental in establishing the psychiatric unit at St. Elizabeth Hospital, she and her husband helped influence two psychiatrists to come to Appleton to practice — Dr. Keith Keane and Dr. Joseph Weissler. She has served as a member of the Wisconsin State Mental Health board of directors.
Filling a number of offices in the OCMA during her years in this city, Mrs. Taylor also has been on the State Medical Auxiliary board.
Auxiliary Officers
Officers installed during the luncheon were Mrs. John Mielke, president; Mrs. B. J. Haza, vice president; Mrs. Frederick Brei, secretary; and Mrs. J. T. Querol, treasurer.
Quick Sundae
For a quick orange sundae, ladle one tablespoon orange juice concentrate over a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Dream Comes True For Pretty Ballerina

'Disney on Parade' at Milwaukee Arena
June 2-6 Includes Alice in Wonderland

It was a dream come true for Merilee Magnuson when she was named Alice in the "Alice in Wonderland" segment of the new 24-hour live stage musical touring arena show "Disney On Parade."

The colorful special opens Wednesday at the Milwaukee Arena and plays through Sunday.

"When I was told I was being considered for a dancing lead I nearly flipped," she said. It's the biggest chance of my life."

The 10-year-old ballerina has been dancing since her unusual debut as a skunk at the age of 3 in Tacoma, Wash., where she was born.

Mousketeer Fan
Her first recollection of anything Disney was the original "Mousketeers" television series.

"I was their biggest fan and always secretly wanted to join them," she says. "I used to memorize their dances and song routines and join them in front of our television set."

Her favorite Disney character always has been Alice, followed closely by Mickey Mouse, Tinker Bell and Peter Pan.

Born Same Time
"I feel closer to Alice because I was born in June, 1951, and the 'Alice in Wonderland' animated feature was released a month later," she said. "The screen Alice and I were almost born at the same time."

But dancing in front of a television set is a long way from the reality of dancing as Alice and attending the zany Un-Birthday party with the White Rabbit, Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum, Walrus and March Hare.

When Merilee was 11, the family moved to California where she started to study in

School Flag Replica Will Make Moon Trip

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Col. James Irwin, one of the Apollo 15 astronauts, has not forgotten his high school.

Irwin says he plans to take a small replica of the flag of Salt Lake City's East High School to the moon with him on the Apollo 15 mission in July.

An East High home economics teacher made the replica for Irwin, and it was mailed to him Tuesday by school officials.

Irwin graduated from East in 1947.

earnest, up to three hours a day. She joined the Laguna Beach, Calif., Civic Ballet Company and studied under its nationally recognized founder, Miss Lila Zali.

Many Talents
In her first few years as a teen-ager, Merilee added recreational activities. These were riding horseback, swimming, and ice skating. As a result, Merilee is multi-talented. She also acts, sings, and plays the piano.

She has appeared in more than 50 ballet performances in the last few years, including leads in "La Fille Mal Gardée" (The Badly Governed Daughter), "Brigadoon," "The Nutcracker," "Swan Lake," and "The Enchanted Toy Shop." "I bubble all over the place when I dance," she explained. "I love to see smiling faces in the audience — I love to make them happy."

"Disney On Parade" presents over 100 Disney characters appearing together for the first time in one live 2½-hour stage musical. "Disney On Parade" is presented by NBC Films, Inc. and Nawal Productions.

Kimberly High Names Winners Of Kermey Awards

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly High School Drama Club held its annual spring banquet at Oakwood Hills Supper Club Sunday night at which time Kermey Awards winners were announced by Faculty Director Rodney Johnson.

Honored were Lynn Geenen, top performance by an actress in a supporting role, Jeff Moureaux, best performance by an actor in a supporting role, Mary Welland, best performance by an actress in a leading role, Stan Swokowski, best performance by an actor in a leading role and Bill Helf, best technical assignment.

Special recognition was given to Helf, Swokowski and Mike Madill who were selected to represent Kimberly in the publication, "Who's Who in High School Dramatics." These students were selected because of their outstanding achievement in dramatic activities at the school, according to Johnson.

Pretty Merilee Magnuson appears in the "Alice in Wonderland" sequence of the Disney on Parade stage musical Tuesday through Sunday, June 6, in Milwaukee. A seasoned ballerina, Merilee joins the cast for a beautiful flower ballet of dancing flowers. The other characters will be there, too, White Rabbit, Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum, the Mad Hatter and the March Hare, all for the zany Un-Birthday party. Milwaukee Arena performances are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday; 4:30 and 8 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Saturday; 2 and 6 p.m. Sunday.

Long Hair Puts Page Out of Assembly Job
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — An Assembly page from Janesville who refused to get a haircut is out of a job.

"In effect, I've been fired," Leroy Pieri said.

He was told by the Assembly sergeant at arms, William Quick, to get a haircut before he returned to work.

Pieri said he would let the matter rest because he plans to leave Madison for the summer anyway.

David Frost Joins Flip In 2 Skits

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — On The Flip Wilson Show David Frost tries his hand at skits and does surprisingly well. He joins Flip as Rev. Leroy, and also teams with Charlie Callas to work with Flip in another skit. Aretha Franklin's costume in this one is memorable. It's supposed to be a copy of a Ghana priestess' outfit, but it looks more like a bunch of feathers in search of a nest. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Alias Smith and Jones, Pete Duel is guiding an expedition looking for a legendary tribe of huge, red-haired Indians. The expedition is just a cover for murder, however. Patrick Macnee and Juliet Mills are along. (R)

7-8 Channels 2-7 — For the balance of the summer, you'll see re-runs of Lancer in this spot. In the opener, Brooke Bundy is around, one of the show's heaviest romantic episodes. She plays a missionary and Johnny winds up in her mission — "God's House" — after being rolled in a saloon brawl (R)

7:30-8 Channels 11-9 — It's still Salem, Mass., the witches' wonderland, for Bewitched. The problem is a Paul Revere teapot, which goes zapping back and forth until Samantha winds up with Paul Revere himself, instead of his pot. (R)

7:30-8:30 Channel 5 — Ironside Concludes its two-parter, set against the background of troubled Canada. It's a murder story complicated by terrorist bombers. A bomb is about to go off along the route of the St. Jean Baptiste parade in Montreal (a second unit actually filmed the event) and therein lies the suspense. (R)

8:30-9:30 Channels 11-8 — Dan August has an episode in which a police lieutenant doesn't act very realistically but it's absorbing to watch, anyhow. There's more humor than usual in the exchanges between Burt Reynolds and Norman Fell, and a good plot gimmick which has August keeping a murder suspect out of the reach of the D.A. until he can gather his evidence (R)

9-10 Channel 5 — Brought back from last New Year's Eve is tonight's Dean Martin Show, and it's quite a party. A couple of the boys — Frank Sinatra and Dean — make merry music (R)

Hope Pleased By New Honors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope, pleased over being named for his 17th honorary college degree, says he isn't bothered because antiwar students and faculty have criticized the award.

"I don't think the criticism means anything. That's a reaction to the war," Hope said in an interview after learning that the California State College Board of Trustees voted Tuesday to give him a doctorate of humane letters.

The degree, proposed by the Faculty Senate at San Fernando Valley State College in January, was attacked by antiwar students and faculty.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

The Aces played today's hands in a recent match at a national tournament. Put yourself in the "decision seat" and match your results with those of the players.

Question No. 1. You are South, all vulnerable. and hold:

♥ A73
♦ A764
♣ K964

What do you bid at this point? (East's two-diamond bid is a cue bid, showing good values in light of the original pass.)

North East South West
Pass 1 1 1
2 2 3 3
Pass 5 5 5

Question No. 2. You are South, no vulnerability. and hold:

♦ AK42
♣ Q1032

What do you bid at this point? (West's two-trump bid shows good spades and about 10 points.)

West North East South
Pass 1 1 1
2 NT 3 4 4

Answer No. 1. Double breaks even, although the opponents score 850 for the doubled contract (a similar sequence at the other table). Pass gains five international match points. Six clubs gains eight IMPs against proper defense. The entire hand:

NORTH 5/27
♥ Q1084
♦ 82
♣ AK10532
WEST EAST
♠ AQ864 ♠ KJ9753
♥ 6 ♥ KJ952
♦ K1095 ♦ J2
♣ J87 ♣ —
SOUTH
♠ 10
♥ A73
♦ A764
♣ K964

If you doubled, as did Ace Bob Hamman, you did not defeat the contract, but you were in "good company" and can console yourself with no loss on the deal.

Answer No. 2. Double gains two IMPs. Pass breaks even. Five clubs loses four IMPs. The entire hand:

NORTH 5/27
♥ 54
♦ 965
♣ AJ765
WEST EAST
♠ QJ102 ♠ AK987
♥ 82 ♥ AJ962
♦ J73 ♦ 108
♣ K84 ♣ 9
SOUTH
♠ KQ107
♥ AK42
♦ Q1032

At the table, South took a "phantom" sacrifice against the four-spade game bid confidently by Aces Billy Eisenberg and Bobby Goldman. Fortunately for The Aces, teammates Jim Jacoby and Bobby Wolff decided to defend against four spades and took four tricks.

Perhaps it was a victory for methods. At the other table, West jumped to three spaces over the double and North (Jacoby) decided not to enter the auction at such a high level.

Couple Marks 60th Wedding Anniversary

KAUKAUNA — Mr. and Mrs. Antone Van Hoof celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday with a Mass of Thanksgiving in the chapel of St. Paul Home where Mrs. Van Hoof is a patient. The couple's grandson, the Rev. Ronald Smith, O.F.M. Cap., officiated at the ceremony. A family dinner was held at the home after the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Hoof were married in 1911 at St. Nicholas Catholic Church in Freedom.

The couple has four daughters: Mrs. Elmer Smith, Mrs. Harold Vandenberg, Mrs. Weldon Huss, all of Freedom, and Mrs. Raymond Schlick, Louisville, Ky. They have 20 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

The Ailing House Brighten That Dull Bathtub

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Is there any product which will put some brightness and sparkle to a dull bathtub, if only temporarily? — Norfolk.

A: White auto rubbing compound does a better than fair job, although by no means forever. Get it at any auto supplies store.

Q: Are there any methods for home testing of well water purity? The older house we bought has a well and the owner assures me that it is crystal pure. But in important matters like this, I'm a little bit from Missouri and would like to make sure myself. — Columbus.

A: Ask the Water Commissioner's office. They prefer to do this testing themselves, using their own sterilized containers. A good idea to let them.

Q: Is a Visqueen (heavy plastic sheeting) base with four inches of gravel bed underneath sufficient drainage for a wood patio I plan to build? — Pewaukee, Wis.

A: That should do very well. Be sure, however, your wood is either a type highly resistant to decay, such as redwood or locust, or thoroughly soaked in a potent wood preservative. The odorless type; not creosote. Lateral odor is too potent for close association.

Q: Melting ice worked through the roof of our mobile home and spotted the ceiling; material is like a heavy cardboard with plastic effect finish. Can this ceiling be painted to hide these spots? — Rhinelander, Wis.

A: Once the ceiling has dried out from the leaks, clean it, to remove any possible traces of grease. Latex, oil-base flat paint or enamel all okay. Make sure the roof is repaired, or the paint will peel next time there's a leak.

Storage Rack Holds Lumber

For the home handyman, storing lumber often is a problem, but a simple-to-build bin can keep it out of the way.

It's constructed of 2 by 4 inch western pine or fir. Two long pieces are fastened to joists or rafters, extending down the wall about eight feet apart.

A rack of 1 by 4 inch lumber is built out from the bottom of the 2 by 4's for stacking sheets of plywood or boards. Two upper shelves are built, using shorter lengths of 2 by 4's fastened to the joists about two feet out from the wall, and 1 by 10 or 1 by 12-inch boards set on 1 by 4-inch crosspieces.

Too Much Glare?

Where a large window wall lets in too much glare a full-length screen of western wood, with insets of colored glass, will soften the light.

To Your Good Health 10 to 20 Vitamins A Day Is Ridiculous

BY G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the last year or so, many of my friends and relatives have become ardent users of vitamin pills. Some take from 10 to 20 various pills a day.

As a woman of near 30, I am also concerned with preserving my youth and health. Would you discuss the amount of each vitamin an adult should receive, and whether more than that amount could be dangerous, and what foods are most abundant in these vitamins? — Mrs. A.C.

Ten to 20 vitamin pills a day is preposterous. It can, if continued, be harmful, depending on which vitamins are taken in overdose. But probably the worst consequence in most cases is the waste of money.

For the sake of several million family pocketbooks, I'd like to see an end to this type of pill-popping.

I am in thorough agreement with the benefits of a properly balanced diet, which includes foods that will provide the necessary vitamins — but also involves more than that.

Two or three servings of protein foods (lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese) a day; a couple of vegetables (one green); a salad; a yellow vegetable; a source of vitamin C (citrus fruit or juice, or tomato juice) once a day; a good supply of calcium, milk being a fine source whether whole milk or skim; some cereal products whether in the form of cereals for breakfast or grain made into bread — that just about covers it. You need some carbohydrate, of course, but people usually tend to get plenty of that anyway. You need a little fat, but nearly all of us get too much.

But with that general pattern, trying to get some fresh fruit or vegetable each day (salads can help take care of that!) you aren't going to run into vitamin deficiencies.

A balanced diet is not a rigid diet, it is a normal diet. There's all the room in the world for variety. If you happen to favor Italian cooking, or French or German or Chinese or some other type you can still have a balanced diet.

Variety, in fact, is excellent insurance — you need traces of various minerals, but they occur in so many foods that your protein, vegetables, fruits, cereals, and milk will provide all you need or can use.

Vitamins (in capsule form) are primarily useful when someone does not pay attention to balanced eating, gets fixed in some abnormal pattern of eating, and eventually develops a deficiency of one or more of the vitamins. (Illness or surgery may warrant a vitamin supple-

Young Hobby Club Grip Determines Score In Tape Measure Game

BY CAPPY DICK

Here's a game that is played with a tape measure and a box. The tape measure is to be placed inside the box. A player reaches in, grasps the tape tape measure at the 16th inch, his score is 16 for that turn. The tape measure is then returned to the box and the next player tries his hand. The first player to score a total of 500 points is the winner of the game.

The tape measure should be an old one that your parents will permit you to use because the metal tips at the ends are to be cut off and the ends are to be sewed together so that the measure is a circle.

The illustration shows the kind of box to use. This may be the bottom portion of a box, turned upside down. An archway type of opening must be cut to allow a player to put his hand inside although he is not allowed to see the tape until he has withdrawn it.

Wilbur WoodHurls Chisox Win Over Kansas City, 7-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

Wilbur Wood is off relief and Bert Blyleven is back on strike. The two pitchers are throwing a lot of American League hitters out of work.

Wood, a former reliever, delivered again in his new starting role as the Chicago White Sox clouted the Kansas City Royals 7-2 Wednesday night. Blyleven, Minnesota's Dutch treat from Zeist, Holland, paralyzed Milwaukee with a 12-strikeout performance in a 4-1 Twins success. It was Wood's third victory as a starter and second straight routine-giving job in a career of 33 appearances.

Wood, who had been complete game until the last two, won a starting assignment when Joe Horlen was hurt on the last day of spring training.

Strong Arm

Blyleven, a 20-year-old strong arm who won 10 games in his rookie season last year, has been even more impressive this season. Among his six victories have been three shutouts and two one-run games, including Wednesday's eight-hitter.

The California Angels beat the Oakland A's 7-5 in 12 innings.

Ken Biegel Resigns Post At Lawrence

Wrestling, Tennis Coach Accepts Grid Job in Colorado

Ken Biegel, head wrestling and tennis coach at Lawrence University, announced today that he will be leaving the school for a head football coaching position at Durango High School in Durango, Colo.

Biegel was assistant football coach at Lawrence and a physical education instructor at Lawrence.

Previously he had been head football coach at Manawa and New London High Schools in the Fox Cities area and a freshman grid coach at Brigham Young University where he earned his masters degree.

Biegel listed as a reason for leaving a desire to return to football as a head coach. "We wanted to get back into that area too," Biegel said, "because it is one of the most beautiful and an ideal one in which to raise a family. I also want to spend more time with my family."

"I've had a fine experience at Lawrence and have learned a lot from our association," he said. Biegel extended his best wishes to the university's athletic program.

Jack's and 616 Club Again Loom as Top Teams in The Area

BY CLIFF CHRISTL

The Fox Valley area's premier fast-pitch teams embarked upon their lengthy string of tournaments — there will be 11 this year, climaxing with the state meet — last weekend at Menasha. And once again Jack's Rose Hill Bar and 616 Club (Green Bay) loom as the cream of the crop.

Pitching remains the name of the game. And both teams are well fortified in this department. But the same can be said of Military Golfland and Benkowski Budweiser of Green Bay, Oregon Clothing and Tommy's Angels of Oshkosh and Endries' Bar of Manitowish.

What distinguishes Jack's and 616 from the remainder of the field is a plethora of talent on the offensive side of the ledger.

Jack's the defending state champion, is coming off a 53-6 season, which included a 29-game winning streak.

Supply Pitching

Bob Ellison, 29-2 last season, and Jack Coenen, 24-4, supply the pitching. First baseman Gene (Chesty) Peerenboom and infielder Tom Grishaber anchor an explosive attack. Chesty hit a phenomenal .545 in the state tournament last summer.

However if Jack's is to duplicate last seasons' accomplishments it will have to replace, at least temporarily, shortstop Hank Peerenboom, possibly the most complete softball player in the area. Hank was injured in a recent industrial accident. His speed, .340 batting average and shotgun arm will be missed.

Manager Floyd Hammen hopes to make up somewhat for his loss with the addition of Gary Weigman, Ron Pahl and Ed Keberlein from the now defunct Schouten Oilers.

State champions of two years ago and perennial Green Bay AAA titlist, the 616, is built around its own version of "Murderers Row" Hub Metzler, first baseman Ron Dart, catcher Dave Gilson, Ken Dax and Fred Fels, when he gets the club.

Both of Wisconsin's governing bodies, the International Softball Congress and American Softball Association, have new state commissioners. Les Dietz of Kaukauna heads the ISC, Joe Dalbairner of Sheboygan the ASA.

Entries can be sent to the Kaukauna Athletic Club, P.O. Box 183, Kaukauna for its Open Invitational tournament slated June 17-20, 24-27. Entries for Denmark's Knights of Columbus tourney, June 7-12, can be obtained from John Miller, route 3, Denmark.

'Little Olympics' Slated at Wausau

WAUSAU — Entries are open for the seventh annual Kiwanis Little Olympics scheduled to be held in Wausau June 11-12.

Entry blanks have been sent to all area schools and are also available by writing Box 398, Wausau, Wis. 54401. Competition is open to all boys and girls from age 9 on up. The statewide "Murderers Row" Hub Metzler, first baseman Ron Dart, catcher Dave Gilson, Ken Dax and Fred Fels, when he gets the club.

WISCONSIN OUTDOORS

It was caught in Asylum Bay, Lake Winnebago.

Terry Graff Signs Viking Pact

Terry Graff, former Appleton Xavier High School and Macalester College star, has signed a free-agent contract with the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League.

Graff, a 6-foot-1, 215-pound running back, will report to the franchise rushing record, with a single-game record — and it is believed to be an NAIA mark, as well. He also was chosen on the all-NAIA District 13 team.

Last fall, Graff rushed for more than 700 yards and also played varsity football and golf all four years in college.

A 1967 graduate of Xavier, Graff, played football, basketball and golf for the Hawks. Graff has been awarded an assistantship grant for graduate work at the University of Minnesota. If he doesn't win a spot Against Augsburg College, in his junior season, Graff rushed for 311 yards for an all-time conference

NFL Player Dispute

Owners Have Duty To Sign Agreement

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The little internal war being fought between the National Football League owners and the NFL Players Association has taken still another turn—and it may very well be that never has so much energy expended over so few words.

The issue is some of the wording in the pending contract between the owners and the players, supposedly wrapped up last Feb. 28 but still being contested today despite a ruling handed down by the National Labor Relations Board in Minneapolis.

The NLRB ruled Wednesday that the owners have a duty to sign the agreement reached on Feb. 28 or appear before a hearing. The owners have chosen to appear for a hearing, adding to the volume of rhetoric on the subject.

Would Appear
The notice that the owners would appear for a hearing came in a statement over the signature of conference president George Halas and Lamar Hunt, which said:

"We welcome the regional director's intervention because we believe it will provide us with an opportunity to present our position in a manner which has not previously been afforded to us."

The owners also repeated an offer to the players "to meet with the association to clarify certain matters in the draft of the agreement so that it can be signed."

It appeared doubtful the players would agree to that since the players contend that the wording of the Feb. 28 agreement, initiated by both sides, was changed by the owners at their March meetings in Florida before being signed.

Duty to Sign
The players turned that contention into an unfair labor practice charge against the owners, contending they had a duty to sign the Feb. 28 agreement. That's the complaint the NLRB ruled on Wednesday, and the one the owners now will have their say on.

While the owners were occupied with the player contract at their Wednesday sessions they also occupied themselves with rules changes and made two they think "will make offensive coaches happy."

The first permits muffed field goal attempts to be run out of the end zone. The second establishes that on holding, clipping or illegal use of the hands penalties, all 15-yarders, the penalty will be marked from the line of scrimmage rather than the point of foul.

Ray Patterson 'Pleased' by All-Star Tilt

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ray Patterson, president of the champion Milwaukee Bucks, Wednesday gave his blessing to Friday night's all-star game between the rival pro basketball leagues.

"Personally, I'm pleased," Patterson said. "I wish them well."

The stars of the National Basketball Association will play the American Basketball Association stars in the Houston Astro-dome.

Patterson whose team won the NBA title in only its third year of existence, said he thought some of the NBA club owners had "over reacted in objecting to the game."

Speaking at a news conference, Patterson said the Bucks would probably play several ABA clubs in exhibition games, this fall, although he said an announced game with the Pittsburgh Condors has not been finalized.

Floyd Batters Youthful Foe In 10 Rounds

Patterson Posts 4th Straight Win Of Comeback Try

CLEVELAND Ohio (AP) — "I wasn't trying to put him away," said former world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson after scoring a unanimous 10-round decision over Terry Daniels of Dallas, Texas, Wednesday night before a crowd of 5,789 at the Cleveland Arena.

"I'm a boxer," said Patterson. "If I'm ahead, the longer I'm in the ring, the better it is for me."

The 36-year-old Patterson, who weighed in at 190½—two pounds more than Daniels—labeled his opponent as very tough.

"If Terry Daniels had been the first fight of my comeback, I wouldn't be here," said the 19-year ring veteran. "He can take a good punch better than I thought he could."

Fourth Victory

It was the fourth victory for Patterson since he came out of a two-year retirement last October and it boosted his career mark to 50-7-1. The loss was only the third for Daniels against 24 wins and one draw.

Patterson knocked down his 24-year-old Texas opponent in the third and ninth rounds, but was never able to land the finishing blow. He was in command the entire bout, landing most of the punches.

Daniels finished with cuts on the head and above the right eye, a swollen face below his right eye and a very sore nose, which bled occasionally during the bout.

"He's the greatest," said Daniels. "I gave it my all. He was just a better fighter. If I had had more I would have won it."

LIFESAVER RADIAL

How can we guarantee it? Because it's a unique tire — a radial. What makes a radial unique? Well to start, radial plays. They cause less friction for longer treadwear. Reinforced with 4 tough Dynacor® Rayon belts for greater tire strength and tread stability.

Next, flexible sidewalls that absorb impact for a smoother ride. And rounded shoulders to put more tread on the road for surer handling. In fact, the special design of the radial even improves gas mileage! All in all, the Lifesaver

LIFESAVER RADIAL TREADWEAR GUARANTEE

B.F. Goodrich Lifesaver Radials are guaranteed to give you 40,000 miles of treadwear in normal driving on your car. If you don't get 40,000 miles, take the guarantee back to your BFG retailer. For a small service charge, he'll give you credit towards the going trade-in price of new Lifesaver Radials.

Zany Incidents Spice Houston's Twin Bill Sweep of San Diego

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

They should have had an inkling that things were going to be slightly out of whack in San Diego Wednesday night when a Cuban manager sent a Panamanian outfielder to the plate with a Japanese bat.

The Houston Astros won the zany opener of a two-night doubleheader from the Padres 2-1, and Larry Dierker then hurled a one-hitter—Ollie Brown's two-out single in the seventh inning—to win the nightcap 8-0 for a Houston sweep.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia nipped the New York Mets 3-2 in 12 innings. St. Louis trounced the Chicago Cubs 9-4 and took over first place in the NL East, Pittsburgh shaded Cincinnati 2-0, San Francisco downed Los Angeles 6-4 and Montreal battered Atlanta 11-1.

Short Stint

The fun started early in San Diego when manager Preston Goetz of the Padres let starter Al Santorini pitch to one batter in the seventh inning and then brought on the opener and then brought on southpaw Dave Roberts to face Houston's predominantly left-handed line-up.

"I knew Harry Walker wanted to pitch Dierker against Roberto Gomez," Goetz said. "It would have been his best against our best. What I did was something I've done before in the minors. When they saw Santorini warming up they had all those left-hand hitters ready to hit against him."

Walker, however, has seen that play before.

"Leo Durocher used to do that when he was managing the Dodgers," said the Houston skipper. "He did it against St. Louis when I played with the Cardinals and it always seemed to rile us up. It seemed to backfire more often than not."

Even the San Diego players didn't know what was going on. They could hear the thump-thump of ball hitting mitt as Roberts warmed up secretly in the San Diego Chargers' football clubhouse right next to their dressing room. There were a lot of puzzled expressions as the Padres headed for the field.

In the second inning, Ivan Murrell came to the plate with a bat given to the Padres by a Japanese team which visited the United States during spring training. Plate umpire Stan Landes ordered Murrell to change bats and he returned to the dugout but marched right back to the plate carrying his samurai weapon.

The Japanese bat is hollowed out at the thick end, sort of a concave shape. Gomez said Lou Brock of St. Louis used it against the Padres over the weekend and Al Barlick, the league's senior umpire, said it was legal. Walker, however, played the game under protest.

In the fifth inning, still using the Japanese bat, Murrell slammed a drive into the left field stands which third base umpire Bob Engel called foul. That drew a heated argument from the Padres, with the usual outcome.

The final indignity came in the seventh, when San Diego's

Berling Blasts 266 Singleton

Dave Berling cracked a 266 game, including eight straight strikes at the start, and finished with a 646 series to pace action in the Cocktail Couples League at Sabre Lanes Wednesday night.

Chris Speier's bloop single drove home the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning and Willie Mays sent in another with a sacrifice fly as the high-flying Giants edged the Dodgers.

Speier and Mays hit consecutive homers in the fifth and Dick Dietz slammed a two-run homer in the first.

Mays also scored his 1,949th run, tying Stan Musial at the top of the all-time NL list.

Bob Bailey drove in four runs and Bill Stoneman hurled a two-hitter as Montreal exploded for six runs in the third inning and crushed the Braves.

Marion Stops Bowler, 4-0

Mike Daley Hurls 4-Hitter, Mustangs Face Gresham Friday

TIGERTON — Mike Daley shut out Bowler on four hits Wednesday as Marion posted a 4-0 victory in WIAA sub-regional play here.

The lanky Daley fanned 11 and didn't issue a walk in going the route. The victory is the 13th straight of the season for Marion.

Goodwin Peterson singled home the first run of the game in the third as Randy Carley reached on a fielder's choice and swiped second.

The Mustangs plated an unearned run in the fourth and tallied twice in the fifth on singles by Kevin Thiel, Peterson and Kent Brandenburg's two-run single.

Bowler mounted its only threat in the sixth but with men at second and third Marion catcher Dave Buntrock picked the runner off third.

Car Crash Fatal To Vanderbilt U. Baseball Player

WYATHEVILLE, Va. (AP) — A Vanderbilt University baseball player, en route to play with the Harrisonburg, Va., Turks in the Sempino Valley League this summer, was killed in a single-car accident in Wythe County Wednesday. A second member of the Vanderbilt team was hospitalized.

Officials at Wytheville Hospital identified the fatally injured player as Robert Stover, 19, and his companion as Verney.

"Chuck" Boyett, 20, Boyett was slightly injured.

Stover was dead on arrival at the hospital. Boyett was under treatment for abrasions.

State police said the car hit the median strip on Interstate 81 and overturned.

Many Big 10 Track Marks in Jeopardy

By JERRY LISKA IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The meet's first sub four-minute mile may spearhead a devastating assault on the record book, and Indiana stages a precarious title defense in the 71st Big Ten outdoor track and field championships Friday and Saturday.

Already this spring, Lee LaBadie of Illinois has turned in a 3:58.8 to become the conference's first undergraduate sub-four-minute miler. Saturday, the wispy Illini junior will draw a bead on the Big Ten meet record of 4:03.6 set last year by returning champion Garry Bjorklund of Minnesota.

Experts figure 10 or 11 meet marks are in jeopardy among the 18 events on the two-day program at the University of Iowa's all-weather track.

12 Champs Return

Competition should be kept right from the start of Friday's twilight session with no fewer than 12 individual champions back. They include 220-sprinter Mike Goodrich; steeplechaser Steve Kelley; shotputter Bob Winchell and discus thrower Val Chandler of defending team, titlist Indiana.

Indoor champion Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan State are expected to pose the chief threats to Indiana in a likely four-team scrap for the title captured last year by the Hoosiers.

Others surpassing conference meet records have been Indiana's Winchell with 59-3½ in the shotput; Wisconsin's Pat Matzdorf with 7-2 in the high jump; Iowa's Phil Wertman with 16-7 in the pole vault, and Wisconsin's Pat Onyango in the triple jump with 50-10½.

Friday's program, starting at 4:30 p.m., CDT, will include Illinois and Michigan State are expected to pose the chief threats to Indiana in a likely four-team scrap for the title captured last year by the Hoosiers.

Truckers Lose Heartbreaker

Minus 7 Regulars, Clints Deal 2-1 Loss by Manawa

CLINTONVILLE — The party came too soon for Clintonville. Disciplinary action was taken by Coach Werner Wernberg against seven seniors who were instrumental in posting a 13-1 record enroute to the WIAA sub-regional final.

"I guess some have more important things on their minds than sacrifice," Wernberg said Thursday after his team dropped a 2-1, 10-inning decision to Manawa. "I felt we had a chance to go to state this season."

Senior Craig LeBeau struck out 17 in pitching the distance for the Truckers. Jim Sexton's home run in the tenth was the decider. The Clints only other remaining senior was Warren Hanson.

Dave Squires took the victory for Manawa by striking out 15 and walking two. LeBeau didn't issue a walk.

Match 3-Hitters Oshkosh Tips Neenah On 2 Unearned Runs

OSHKOSH — Oshkosh High did Tim Fenn and Mike Miller. School tallied an unearned run who shared Oshkosh's mound in the last of the seventh to assignment. Because he pitched edge Neenah, 2-1, for the one inning Tuesday, Fenn only championship of the WIAA sub-regional baseball tournament was able to work six frames and he hurled the first through the third and the final three. Neenah made its run off Miller in the fourth.

Jim Pelky singled to short to open the final frame and was bunted to second by Jeff Beck. After Frank Sawall walked, Mark Rothenbach hit a ground-thrower to shortstop Glen Rodgers, forcing Sawall at second but the throw to first on the attempted double play got away and Pelky scored.

The Indians' initial run off Dene Storch in the third also was unearned.

Two-Year Draft Extension Passes Hurdle in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $2.7 billion voted by the House, said of the defeat: "I think the absentees killed for a two-year draft extension," he told a reporter. "If we'd but the sponsor of a one-year had the people here, we would limit says he isn't ready to have won."

The administration fought hard against the extra pay on grounds it would force closing of some military bases and other defense cuts. The vote also was 42 to 31 Wednesday against a triumph for Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and floor manager of the draft bill.

Pay Increase
"Somewhere, sometime, the Senate is going to have to turn down a pay increase," he said before the vote. "If we don't, there is going to be a revolt of the taxpayers." The vote on the pay raise, which will have to be settled finally when Senate and House conferees attempt to resolve the different versions of the bill, was the Senate's final action before it quit for a long Memorial Day weekend.

The Senate resumes work Tuesday but the next draft vote comes June 4 on the one-year amendment to increase the bill's $1 billion in pay hikes to be closer.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, who sponsored the amendment to increase the bill's $1 billion in pay hikes to be closer.

Drug Use Cited as Dangers to Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new congressional report says so many American soldiers in Vietnam are being hooked on heroin that President Nixon should withdraw all U.S. troops unless the drug traffic is halted.

The report, prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, says many high-ranking Laotian, Thai and Vietnamese officials have a major hand in illegal drug sales to GIs. In some cases, it says, U.S. planes and diplomatic pouches are used to ferry opium and heroin into Saigon.

The report recommends the President "take personal command of the struggle to eliminate the illegal international traffic in narcotics, particularly heroin, and commit the full resources of the country to that battle."

Only Solution
If these efforts fail, the study said, "The only solution is to withdraw American servicemen from Southeast Asia."

Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn., principal author of the report compiled after he and Rep. Morgan F. Murphy, D-Ill., toured Southeast Asia earlier this year.

An earlier report from the House Armed Services Committee also described corruption in the drug trade among South Vietnamese officials, but stopped short of indicating how heroin gets into Vietnam.

"In Laos, government armed

Dominick said his proposal was designed to prevent draft extension from becoming "a political football" in the 1972 presidential campaign.

Stennis said, however, the

There Is Only One Way Out

Burning Love Affair Is Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Americans are on the verge of a love affair in which they're certain to get burned.

They don't have to get burned by the object of their affection, the sun. But arrayed against their hopes of making it through the summer without pain are sun tan preparations, which offer no protection; sunburn remedies whose curative powers are disputed; drugs, soaps and cosmetics which can make sun bathers super-sensitive, and their own ignorance.

Americans spend more than $50 million a year looking for the right sun tan preparation, although an official of the Food and Drug Administration says, "There's nothing that will prevent a sunburn except staying out of the sun."

The American Medical Association won't go that far. It cautions moderation in exposure to the sun and says, "Properly applied sun lotion can be helpful in preventing a burn and promoting a tan if you use one suited to your needs."

That's the problem

New Order On Pentagon Documentary

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee investigating the CBS documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon" has withdrawn its original subpoena asking for all unused material in the program and issued a new order for part of the material and for testimony by CBS President Frank Stanton.

The new subpoena demands only film and sound recordings edited out of scenes broadcast in the documentary.

"It appears that questionable and deceptive practices were employed in presenting to the public what purported to be a factual news documentary," the subcommittee said Wednesday in a statement.

Stanton said he had not yet seen the subpoena but added, "Our basic position in declining on First Amendment grounds to provide material not actually broadcast remains the same."

Noting that the Supreme Court is to rule on subpoenaing reporters' notes, the subcommittee said films and recordings, however, "cannot be equated to the private thoughts and impressions of a reporter committed to a notebook."

Industry Pollution Handled Gently

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials have decided to use a soft touch in enforcing water quality standards against industrial polluters.

Criminal prosecution will be the last resort, federal officials said at a government-industry conference Wednesday, and any charges filed will probably fall on plant managers, not top executives.

In fact, said an official of the Environmental Protection Agency, EPA's regional enforcement agents have been instructed not to recommend a suit against a company before trying to get a firm's voluntary cooperation.

27 Cities
The government's enforcement plans were spelled out to industrialists in a conference sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers and transmitted by closed-circuit television to participants in 27 cities.

An estimated 40,000 businesses must apply, by July 1, for permits to discharge industrial wastes into the nation's waterways under a new federal program aimed at curbing pollution.

Permits will be issued by the Corps of Army Engineers, but only upon certification by state agencies and EPA that a discharge will not violate water quality standards.

"Our policy is not to bring suit if we don't have to," John Quares, EPA general counsel, said.

"In a recent meeting in Washington with EPA enforcement agents," he continued, "we directed them not... recommend a suit until they had explored with the company the prospects of solving the problem."

Shiro Kashiwa, assistant U.S. attorney general, said that if a suit is recommended by EPA or the Corps, the Justice Department "would prefer a civil injunctive suit."

Suits Pending

Kashiwa said the Justice Department now has pending some 40 civil suits seeking injunctions against major industries.

Martin Green, Justice Department specialist in antipollution enforcement, told corporate presidents and executives that if criminal charges were brought the defendant would be "more likely a plant manager than the higher-ranking executive."

Industrialists in the conference expressed concern over federal requirements that they report information on plant inputs as well as on discharges. Such information, they said, could give valuable confidential information to competitors.

One asked if citizens could use the legally reported information on discharges to start antipollution suits and try to collect an informer's bounty from the court.

Kashiwa said the Justice Department "would strenuously object to the court if this were done."

William D. Ruckelshaus, head of EPA, said discharge permits would be denied, and violators prosecuted, only where it appeared evident that a company was not really trying to meet water quality standards.

No Motive Found In Slaying of 12

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — A farm labor contractor is charged formally in a mass murder case that has yielded the hacked bodies of 12 men found buried in Northern California peach orchards.

A search continued today for more possible victims of the assailant who hacked each of the 12 in the back of the head with a machete or a large, heavy knife.

Juan V. Corona, 37, a migrant labor recruiter for 15 years in Yuba City's peach and prune growing region, was held in isolation in the three-cell women's section of the small Sutter County jail.

Corona was taken before Justice Court Judge J. J. Hanks Wednesday for a brief, closed hearing on 10 counts of murder filed by Dist. Atty. G. Dave Teja. Two bodies were found after those papers were drawn.

Public Record
Hanks ordered everyone involved in the investigation not to discuss anything beyond the public record.

Roy J. Van den Heuvel, Sutter County public defender named as Corona's counsel, asked that newsmen and photographers be barred from the hearing.

Before the hearing, Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker declared: "We're certain he committed the murders."

But he said he knew of no motive—"none at all, none that we can discover."

"All of the murder victims have the same type of wounds in the back of the head," the sheriff said. "I would rule out an axe as the murder weapon."

Stab Wounds
Most of the victims also had been stabbed in the chest and some were cut on the face, he said.

Corona was arrested shortly after 4 a.m. Wednesday at his three-year-old, $22,000 home in the new Richland Road subdivision in Yuba City after officers had dug nine victims from sanfor even 30 minutes when the dry orchard graves three to five feet deep.

The sheriff and his deputies refused to say what evidence pointed to the husky 5-foot-11 Mexican-American known to his Anglo neighbors as a very quiet man with little command of English.

The first grave was discovered last Thursday in the orchard of Goro Kagehiro five miles north of Yuba City, a fruit growing center 135 miles northeast of San Francisco on the Feather River.

Juan V. Corona

Kagehiro called sheriff's officers after noting that a hole two feet deep and six feet long he observed in the morning had been filled by afternoon.

The body of Kenneth Edward Whitacre, 40, of Alameda, Calif., was dug up there.

The next body was found Tuesday afternoon after a tractor driver noticed a mound on the 500-acre Jack Sullivan peach and prune ranch on the Feather River's west bank.

A systematic search uncovered four more graves in a cluster three-quarters of a mile away. Two more were found a half mile in the opposite direction along the river's bank.

One grave contained two corpses. The others were buried individually.

Suspicious Mounds
Suspicious looking mounds about two miles from the river yielded three more corpses Wednesday afternoon. All but the first body were buried on the Sullivan ranch, where Corona bossed a farm labor camp during harvest seasons.

Sheriff Whiteaker said the oldest grave was about two months old and covered by grass. The most recent was less than 48 hours old, he said.

Shortly before Corona was led handcuffed into the jail with his head covered by a blanket, officers carried inside an axe, a pruning knife and a dirt-caked shovel.

Whiteaker said four victims had been identified by Wednesday night.

The sheriff said all appeared to be transients who would be unlikely to be reported missing.

Bear Creek School Gets No-Grade Plan

Kindergarten-3rd Grade Program Voted

CLINTONVILLE — The board of education Tuesday night approved a kindergarten through third grade multi-unit school program at Bear Creek next year.

Mrs. Theresa Stuempges, a Bear Creek teacher, and O. Reed Newton, elementary supervisor, outlined plans for the multi-unit school. This will be a continuous program, more flexible than present operations. Children will be grouped according to their needs instead of grades, with attention focusing on specific skills. There will be constant testing of these skills with enrichment materials for those who have mastered them and work with those who have not.

It was pointed out that only three teachers will be needed but some teacher aides and additional planning time for the teachers will be required.

The board authorized the administration to hire the necessary number of teacher aides to carry out the program at a total cost not to exceed $9,000; to join the multi-unit school plan as a participating school with the Department of Public Instruction, and to buy the Wisconsin Design for Reading Development Skills testing program.

Newton reported on the Title I, pre-school summer course which will be held from June 14 to July 22 with an anticipated enrollment of 26. This summer session will be totally funded by the Federal Government in the amount of $4,942. The staff will consist of two tutors, one para-professional, one part-time speech therapist, and a part-time psychologist. Following the session, a survey of parents of children participating in the program will be made.

Summer Music

The board agreed to allow James S. A. M. A. to conduct three summer music lessons as he did last year on a volunteer basis.

The possibility of organizing a band parents group was discussed and it was felt this matter be left to the administration and staff members to decide.

The recommendation of Supt. V. J. Wadleigh was accepted to offer a contract to Mrs. Shirley Essmann, Clintonville, to teach senior high school business education for the coming year.

Mrs. Essmann previously taught in Clintonville until 1968 and has had nine years' experience.

Wayne Mast will be released from his contract to accept a contract in Iowa.

A clarification on the matter of election of school board members was presented and discussed. Local members will be elected on the day of the annual meeting in 1971 and 1972, but beginning in 1973, will be elected at the regular spring election.

The terms of Dr. Peter J. Oberhauser and Stewart Huber expire this year. Huber was appointed in January to fill an unexpired term.

There was considerable discussion on attendance next Thursday. It was decided that classes will be held on June 3 for all pupils in grades kindergarten through 11. Seniors will come in the afternoon for commencement practice.

COG Executive Director Resigns

Eugene E. Franchetti, executive director of the Fox Valley Council of Governments, Wednesday was appointed executive director of a citizen's study committee on metropolitan problems, formed by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey to determine ways to improve local government operations in metropolitan areas of the state. Franchetti will leave COG next month.

Franchetti's appointment was announced by Gilbert Church, a Milwaukee attorney and chairman of the study committee. Church also is chairman of the Wisconsin Metropolitan Alliance.

"Mr. Franchetti's extensive experience with areawide problems and government is important to this study," Church said, "because one of the basic issues we must contend with is how to alleviate the problem formed by fragmented local government in metropolitan areas."

Franchetti, 39, is the working head of the primary regional planning agency for the Fox Cities-Oshkosh metropolitan area. No replacement has been selected for Franchetti.

Charles M. Hill, secretary of the Department of Local Affairs and Development (DLAD), said Franchetti will be assisted by two other full-time professional persons, plus some part-time help from graduate students.

Franchetti's salary will be $23,500 a year. The total budget for the yearlong study will be $95,000 with the state Board of Government Operations providing $50,000 and the DLAD furnishing $45,000. Budget and staff support for the study is being coordinated by DLAD.

Franchetti was COG's first executive director. A new regional program was developed under his direction, including a land use transportation study, water supply and pollution abatement plan, housing study, and law enforcement and criminal justice program.

He also wrote a report on comprehensive health planning for parts of Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet counties served by COG, which received a first place award from the National Service to Regional Councils in 1970.

Prior to joining COG, Franchetti was executive director of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission; a resident planner for Harland Bartholomew and Associates, city planning consultants from St. Louis, Mo., and a cartographer for the Aeronautical Chart and Information Center in St. Louis.

He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in geography from St. Louis University.

Lucey appointed the 17-member study committee April 20, and charged the group with finding ways to curb local government fragmentation, which he said is characterized by the 39 separate local governments in the Milwaukee metropolitan area, and the over 60 units in the Madison metropolitan area.

Local government fragmentation not only causes confusion among citizens, the governor said, but also fosters pollution, duplication competition for industry and fiscal problems because areawide planning, coordination and implementation are stifled.

"It is this non-system of patchwork governments that I am asking you to study," the governor said.

The committee has been asked to report back to the governor in about a year with recommendations on how to modify state statutes to help local governments operate more effectively in metropolitan areas. The committee will be assisted by technical advisory group headed by Prof. Henry Schmandt, chairman of the Urban Affairs Department at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Retaining 2 Lawyers for Indigents Is Ruled Legal

Wisconsin Atty. Gen. Robert Warren has ruled in a written informal opinion, that a proposal to hire two attorneys on a retainer basis to defend indigents is legal.

Warren's opinion apparently clears the way for the Outagamie County Board to go ahead with the plan for the county judges to designate a two-attorney panel to handle all indigent defense work in the county.

Under the plan they would each be paid a retainer of $500 per month. Presently, the county spends about $25,000 annually for indigent defense attorneys who are picked on an individual case basis.

Warren's opinion was sought after acting Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath had contended such a plan was illegal under existing statutes.

Warren said the county's right to secure legal services for indigents at a reasonable cost "is, in my opinion, within the legislative grant of general police powers." The proposed plan, he noted, still left to the judges the right to pick the two attorneys for the panel.

The attorney general said it also was legal to seek recovery of the costs from the defendants when they became able to pay but that problems could arise in determining what portion of the $500 salary would be attributed to a case. "I assume, however, that these problems could be solved through efficient accounting and timekeeping practices," he wrote.

A question also had been raised whether recent law school graduates, if hired on the panel, would be capable of giving adequate defense.

Warren said "Obviously, any defendant has a right to competent representation — and the ancillary right to complain that lawyers, Warren said "I cannot believe that section would be interpreted so as to prohibit a plan such as this — a plan that in fact little validity to would provide efficient and the assumption — that a young effective representation of indigent lawyer is less competent than a substantial savings to an older one."

On a final point, as to whether the plan violates the statute calling for indigent defense circuit judge before the county counsel pay to be the same as board referred the question to that customarily charged by the attorney general.

Speaker at Waupaca Group Sets Goals For Mental Health

NEW LONDON — The prevention of mental illness and the support of the State Child Advocacy Council are the two goals set by the Wisconsin Association of Mental Health for its county associations during the coming year.

May is designated Mental Health month each year in Wisconsin and to spur the current campaign for program support and funds, Mrs. Norma Nesbitt, president of the state group, spoke to the Waupaca association at the high school.

"We can't let George do it because it may never get done," Mrs. Nesbitt said. "Each of us as members of mental health associations, must feel responsible to speak for the handicapped person who cannot speak for himself."

Provide Funds

"It is our responsibility to find ways to provide funds for their continued care and treatment," she said. "Considerable progress has been made during the past 10 years in alerting the public to the importance and ways of promoting mental health, together with meaningful ways of supporting the mentally ill after treatment, when they return to their homes and communities."

Treatment of the mentally ill is vital, but it is not the total task, she said. We must do everything we can to change the attitudes of people, and to see the emotional and mental health needs. With that awareness, the need should be met without delay, she added.

Jayettes Cited

Mrs. Nesbitt said that the Child Advocacy Council, being established by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, is designed to fight for the rights of children. She alerted the local chapter to acquaint itself thoroughly with the council precepts which may alter the rights of parents and guardians.

Certificates of commendation were presented to the Weyauwega and New London Jayettes for their outstanding work as volunteers in mental health by Mrs. LaVern Hanke, president of the Waupaca association.

The Weyauwega Jayettes mental health chairman, Mrs. Russell Larson, presented a $25 check to the association. This money was awarded to the group for placing first in the Jayettes' statewide division of mental health competition.

Waupaca High School students presented the play, "Gratitude." The cast included Lillian Oppen, Terri Johnson, Yvonne Anderson, Terri Nelson and Marky Karski and was directed by Donald Roe.

The New London Jayettes furnished refreshments.

New London Makes Plans For Festival

NEW LONDON — Preparations for the Wolf City Festival, July 10 and 11, in the city are under way.

The parade committee reported that it is in the final planning stage for the Saturday event, but still seeks more local floats. Theme for the festival is "A Better World."

Featured in the carnival will be a ferris wheel and merry-go-round along with a homemade raft race.

Youngsters interested in competing in the race are asked to contact Charles Dorsey. Discount tickets for rides are on sale in advance.

Spice Defends Jail Security Plans

Sheriff Calvin Spice has defended the security systems proposed for the new Outagamie County jail but said they should not be considered as replacements for personnel.

Spice also told the county board's special building committee that three additional people probably will be needed to operate the jail building.

The proposal calls for eight closed-circuit television cameras mounted at various points in the building, plus a sound monitoring system.

County Executive Alvin Woehler had challenged the need for some of the closed-circuit television equipment, saying he would rather have additional personnel on duty.

At the present time, the sheriff's department has two men on duty after 5 p.m. at the courthouse, the radio operator and a jailer.

Woehler said he found it "difficult to believe" that one man would be able to operate the new radio console. He said he also would rather have another person on duty on the first floor, where there is now none, for a total of four people at night, instead of some of the surveillance equipment.

Spice agreed the extra people were needed. He said there should be two men on the radio now. "There is too much for one man to handle with the radio, telephones and teletype," he said. He noted that the Appleton police department has had two men on the radio console for a number of years.

"How long will it be before we need someone on the first floor at night?" Supv. Delmar Schmeichel, committee chairman asked.

"Immediately," Spice said. He added that frequently when strangers want to go to the sheriff's department at night they don't know where to go. He said the janitors frequently find people wandering around the courthouse at night trying to find the department.

Spice also pushed for the special 10-track tape recorder which will cost an estimated $10,000. The recorder is a dual unit with an automatic second 10-track backup if the first unit fails.

The recorder would run 24 hours a day and monitor all telephone calls and radio transmissions. Spice said it would replace the manual radio log that is now kept.

A similar, but less sophisticated, recorder was installed about six years ago but quit working about two years ago. He said he would not permit Spice said the unit was one of the first of its kind and was not heavy enough for the 24-hour a day use. "The radio operators said he did not care if the miss the recorder," he said. "I county took over the food operation but it would have to be done in the jail kitchen."

Ed Slezewski, electrical engineer with Sauter, Seaborn, Payne and Duszak Architects, committee had considered using estimated a maintenance contract for the recorder would save money on kitchen facilities cost about $300 a year.

The closed-circuit television system would cost about $750 equipment savings would be per camera, plus cost of the minor.

Former Chilton Man Pledges $1.5 Million to UW

MADISON — A pledge of $1.5 million, the largest single donation ever given to the University of Wisconsin, has been made by a former Chilton man toward construction of an academic building on the Madison campus.

Lewis G. Weeks, Westport, Conn., one of the world's best known petroleum geologists and a 1917 UW graduate has offered the money for the new geology-geophysics building.

In recommending a acceptance of the pledge, John C. Weaver, university president, expressed "the warm appreciation of a great university for his outstanding contribution to sustaining excellence at this university."

Weeks' oil discoveries have had a major effect on the economic development of several nations, including Australia, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, India and Venezuela.

He is a former president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and recipient of the organization's highest award, the Powers Medal. Weeks also has been an adviser for the U.S. government on mineral affairs and served as chief geologist for Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

In 1970 Weeks was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree at the university's commencement exercises at Madison.

Regents also authorized a request for $1,850,000 in matching funds from the 1969-71 biennial capital building program, authorized by the legislature to start work on the building project.

The national science foundation also had allocated $500,000 for the new building. The gift from Weeks is contingent upon receipt of these additional funds.

The proposed facility will provide offices, teaching and research laboratories and ancillary areas for the two departments.

Construction is expected to begin in July 1972 and is expected to be completed 18 months later.

Weeks is a specialist and pioneer in the study of sedimentary basin development, oil occurrence and world oil reserve.

His long career began with graduation from the University of Wisconsin in 1917.

He worked briefly in Mexico, and later in Arizona. During World War I he was a Navy aviator, flying open-cockpit biplanes. After the war he spent two years at Cornell University, doing graduate work and teaching.

His next four years were spent in India, working for the Whitehall Petroleum Co., conducting geological surveys.

He joined the Standard Oil firm in 1924 and for the next ten years worked and traveled extensively in South America. In 1933 he became chief geologist for the company and in 1938 became its chief research geologist, a position he held until 1958.

As president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, he maintains a heavy schedule of global speaking and visiting tours.

Senate Bill Endorsed

Lawyer Service and Fees Hit by County Board Panel

The Outagamie County Board's judiciary and enforcement committee continued Tuesday to cast a critical eye on the legal profession. By separate votes, the committee unanimously endorsed resolutions urging the board to support legislative proposals to abolish the necessity of attorney services in the termination of joint tenancies and to end attorney "price fixing" through minimal bar rates.

Private Court Study Favored by Huseby

Charging that a state-level study of Outagamie County courts "won't amount to a hill of beans," Supv. Paul Huseby of Appleton Tuesday sought support from his judiciary and enforcement committee to attempt to get the Institute of Judicial Administration to reconsider its decision to abandon support for an independent court study.

The Outagamie County Board has appropriated funds to cover a fourth of the cost of the $10,000 study by the New York-based institute. The study, which seemed virtually assured until last week, was to have started next month.

However, Institute Director Delmar Karlen informed local officials that, based on a conversation with Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, the institute was withdrawing its offer to do the study requested by the county. Hallows reportedly told Karlen that a more comprehensive study of the entire judicial system in the state would begin soon under the direction of a 35-member task force recently named by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

'Waste of Money'
Karlen quoted Hallows as saying that a study of Outagamie County alone "would not be likely to result in any improvement and that it might well be waste of public money in view of the expected larger study."

Huseby, who has been one of the chief proponents of the independent study, felt that "the statewide study won't even begin to get to the nitty gritty that an independent, local study would." The institute study would have taken about two months.

In stronger language, Huseby charged that State Court Administrator Edwin Wilkie, whose partial responsibility is to oversee operations and administration of Wisconsin courts, "has been protecting the problems of this county since I've been on the board."

Huseby further charged that Hallows doesn't know what the court problems are in Outagamie County and added, "I think they're afraid to have any outside agency come in here to make a study."

'Protecting Balliwick'
"The whole bunch of them are protecting this balliwick," Huseby remarked.

"An outside agency would tell them (the judges) to get to work," said Supv. Thomas Woods of Appleton.

"You can't get into (Judge Raymond) Dohr's court with a juvenile case for months but you go down there and he's seldom busy," Woods told the committee.

Huseby ran into opposition when he proposed that Supv. John R. Schreiter of Appleton, who used to be on Huseby's committee, be asked to see if anything could be done to salvage the independent study deeds, without the necessity of hiring an attorney and going through Probate Court. State law now dictates that an attorney must be retained for any estate having a value of more than $1,500. The State Bar Association recommends the attorney fee schedule.

There was only brief discussion on the resolution Tuesday, but the committee had dealt with the issue in depth at a meeting the previous week. Supv. Paul Huseby, chairman of the judiciary and enforcement committee and author of the resolution, complained that the recommended probate rates work hardships on heirs of estates under $10,000 and on heavily indebted estates. The recommended attorney fees are based on a percentage of the estate. The percentage decreases as the value of the estate increases.

Huseby also authored the resolution seeking board pressure in support of a senate bill that would prohibit the use of a minimum fee schedule for attorneys.

Proponents of the bill, which Tuesday was the subject of a hearing before the senate judiciary committee, argue that the minimum bar rate, which is now $30 per hour, constitutes price fixing, since a lawyer must be a member of the bar and as such is required to adopt the schedule.

The senate bill, which has as one of its co-sponsors Rep. Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, provides for a separate violation of state law each day the minimum bar rate would be in effect after the bill would become law.

"They've got us with our hands behind our backs," Huseby said in referring to the minimum bar rate. "They can all get together and raise the fees. That's price fixing," he added.

Huseby said before the vote was taken that even if the committee shunned the resolution he would take it to the board floor himself next month.

Supv. George Driessen of Appleton favored the resolution, saying it "would give people a chance to shop around for a lawyer."
